UNITED STATES BUSY ON NEXT MEXICO MOVE.

European Powers Asked to Suspend Formulation of Policy.

Sailing of Ships from Hampton Roads First Step in Huerta's Warning.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—Secretary Bryan said today that a formal note had been sent to all the European governments asking them to suspend the formulation of a policy toward Mexico until the United States had defined its attitude. While England, France, and Germany, he said, had already been heard from, it is expected that the others will follow the three great powers in awaiting the decision of the United States as to the next step in bringing peace in Mexico. President Wilson had an early conference with Secretary Bryan today, and the Secretary stated afterward that they were at work on the next step in the policy that will be pursued.

It is expected that the United States will first make formal demand for the elimination of Huerta and the conduct of fair and free election possibly with some safeguards to systemize the election machinery. There was absolutely no comment forthcoming, however, from executive quarters as to just what was intended by the United States but it was generally agreed in official circles that some positive action looking toward a solution of the problem would be in line with the expectation of the powers. Steps to secure a new election would involve negotiations with the constitutionalists and there is a confidence among officials that if guarantees for a free campaign can be arranged through the establishment of a provisional authority at Mexico City, acceptable to the constitutionalists, the latter are likely to fall into line.

Secretary Bryan said the State Department had not yet decided what disposition would be made of General Felix Diaz, a refugee on board battleship Louisiana.

The sailing today of the American ships from Hampton Roads to relieve those at Vera Cruz marks the first step on the part of the United States toward complying with the recent declaration of Huerta, that foreign ships had been too long in Mexican waters.

Battleships Rhode Island, Virginia, Nebraska and New Jersey of the Third division of the Atlantic fleet will relieve the vessels of the Second division which have been on duty in Mexican waters for several months, and they are expected to come north on the arrival of the ships leaving Hampton Roads today. Rear Admiral Fletcher will continue to command the squadron in Mexican waters, because of his familiarity with the situation. It is expected that the ships of the Third division will reach Vera Cruz Monday.

Small groups of federals arriving at Mazatlan reported disastrous defeat after four days' fighting, about 10 miles from the city.

Ward liner Morro Castle, with Mrs. John Lind and 10 refugees on board, is due in New York tomorrow from Vera Cruz.

A laconic message from Rear Admiral Fletcher today said General Felix Diaz and his party were on board battleship Louisiana and that "all was quiet."

FUGITIVES EXPRESS ANXIETY.

No Advice from Washington as to the Disposition of Diaz.

VERA CRUZ, Mexico, Oct. 29.—No advices as to what is to be done with Felix Diaz and his fellow refugees on board United States battleship Louisiana had come from Washington up to 9 o'clock to John Lind, the personal representative of President Wilson, consul William W. Canada or Rear Admiral Fletcher. The fugitives this morning expressed some anxiety as to their eventual disposition.

No sign of protest against the granting of an asylum to the refugees on an American warship has been made by the Mexican authorities.

WETMORE INTERESTED IN LAND.

West Virginia Coal Strike Inquiry Re-Opened by Senate Board.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—The West Virginia coal strike investigation was re-opened today by the Senate special committee to examine Charles S. Pratt of New York as to the ownership of the coal lands being worked in the Paint Creek district. Pratt testified that he and his brother owned a five-eighths interest in the 21,000 acre tract on Paint Creek and that former Senator Wetmore of Rhode Island owned the remaining three-eighths. He denied that he was a director of the Standard Oil Company or that the company had any interest direct or indirect in the land. Pratt testified. However, that his brother, H. L. Pratt, associated with him in the West Virginia land, was a director in the Standard Oil.

Affidavits by Governor Hatfield and others denying the allegations of W. D. Thompson, an editor of Huntington, W. Va., that he had been placed in a cell with negroes and given no bed, at the suggestion of the governor, during the strike, were filed and the hearing closed.

CLAIMS POISON WAS SELF-ADMINISTERED.

Asks Jury to Decide That Admiral Eaton Killed Himself.

Counsel Morse Makes Strong Plea for the Accused Widow.

PLYMOUTH, Mass., Oct. 29.—The closing argument in behalf of Mrs. Jennie May Eaton, charged with the murder of her husband, Rear Admiral Joseph Giles Eaton, was made today by William A. Morse. He had announced that he would occupy two hours in his effort to convince the jury that the evidence had shown that Rear Admiral Eaton had himself administered the poison which caused his death. District Attorney Barker was prepared to follow immediately with the closing plea for the prosecution. It was thought that he would conclude early enough to enable Chief Justice Aiken to charge the jury and give the case into their hands by tonight.

In opening, Attorney Morse dwelt upon the tender meaning of the words "going home" and added: "I hope that this brave and patient woman is going home with us."

He told the jurors that even though they believed a defendant guilty in their own hearts they had no right to return a verdict of guilty unless the evidence has so proved. "There is not a fact," he said, "there is no evidence upon which you can find that this woman committed the act charged; that this woman is so insane that she could commit crime and not be responsible for it."

Admiral Eaton was intemperate and possessed a mind that was vile, but with a polished exterior, Attorney Morse said.

As a contrast to what he characterized as the admiral's ingratitude in failing to pay honest debts, counsel cited Mrs. Eaton's act in cancelling debts for physicians attending her husband, in eggs and farm produce.

"Here is a woman of whom we ought to be proud, whether she was mercenary or not," said the attorney.

Regarding the letters written by Mrs. Eaton and which have been entered as exhibits in the case, Attorney Morse argued that all were prompted by pity for the admiral. The admiral's letters which have been introduced were the product of a vile mind, he said. The admiral, he said, had taken drugs to the end of his life.

Attorney Morse scouted the "wicked accusation of the government" that Mrs. Eaton had a wealthy suitor in Chicago. "There is not a particle of evidence to support it," he declared.

"The government," Mr. Morse argued, "has sought in vain for motive. It has selected a number, and has asked the jury to take its choice."

Mr. Morse laid much stress on the fact that the defendant had chosen to appear on the witness stand. "The story of the life of Jennie M. Eaton," he said, "is not the story of a woman who has loved too much, but of a self-sacrificing woman who has fought on until she could do no more."

Attorney Morse drew a picture of an unfortunate wife in her first marriage and of a loving and sacrificing mother. He recounted the incidents of her life as related by Mrs Eaton on the witness stand, bringing out her devotion to her younger daughter, Dorothy Ainsworth. The attorney declared that Admiral Eaton saw in the nurse engaged in his home at Washington a tower of strength and kept her there, and that she went into the life of a man who was vile, corrupt and impure. "Mrs. Eaton is a victim of circumstances which have brought her here," he said.

The lawyer said that there had not been a single witness who had seen Admiral and Mrs. Eaton other than happy and affectionate towards each other. He explained June's absence from the Assinippi home by saying that the elder daughter objected to the admiral's treatment of her, and she did not remain away because the admiral wished it.

"Are you going to say that this defendant was possessed of hallucinations," asked Mr. Morse, "when one of the greatest admirals of the navy (referring to Admiral Clark) said that Admiral Eaton confessed to him his use of drugs, and other officers of the navy testified to their observance of such use?"

In closing, Mr. Morse declared that in spite of a country-wide search by the officers they have been unable to find a trace of any sale of poison to Mrs. Eaton, "and this," he added, "is because there was never a drop of poison in her hands."

He said he could not guess the cause of Admiral Eaton's death, and he cautioned the jurors that they had no right to guess, when the life of Mrs. Eaton hung on the result.

HIS REQUEST DENIED.

Muret Sentenced to Over Seven Years for Having Counterfeiting Outfit.

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—Ernest A. Murel, bogus dentist and companion of the Rev. Hans Schmidl, slayer of Anna Annuller, was sentenced today to seven years and six months in the federal prison at Atlanta, for having in his possession a complete outfit to be used in counterfeiting $20 bills. Muret was convicted yesterday. In sentencing Muret the court denied his request to be permitted to return to Germany and remain there.

THIRTY LABOR UNION MEN SEEK NEW TRIAL.

Los Angeles Case Called Before Circuit Court of Appeals.

Were Adjudged Guilty With McNamaras in Promoting Explosions.

CHICAGO, Oct. 29.—Another chapter in the nation-wide story of the dynamite plots which culminated in the fatal explosion in Los Angeles in 1910 was written today when the case was called before the United States circuit court of appeals. Thirty of the 33 labor union officials who were adjudged guilty with the McNamara brothers in promoting explosions as that the present court set aside the verdicts rendered at Indianapolis last December, and that they be given a new trial. Opposed to them, the federal government asked that the convicted men be sent back to prison at Leavenworth, Kansas, to serve out their terms.

A sentence of seven years, the heaviest penalty of all, hangs over Frank M. Ryan, who is out on $70,000 bond pending this appeal. He was given the longest term, Judge A. B. Anderson at Indianapolis said because he was president of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers' Union, out of whose funds the expenses of the dynamiters were paid.

Six years' imprisonment is the penalty which Olaf A. Tveitmoe of San Francisco and each of six others ask to be set aside. Tveitmoe is a labor leader prominent on the Pacific coast. He and six other men were given the second longest terms because they were found guilty of voting to appropriate the union's funds for dynamiting non-union work or actually aiding John J. and James B. McNamara in explosions on the Pacific coast. The other prison terms, most of which have been suspended pending the appeal vary from four years to one year and one day.

Three days of the present court are to be devoted to the hearing on the appeals and the government's oppositions. It is likely that when the argument is concluded Judges Kohlsaat, Baker and Seaman will take the petition under advisement. It is understood that should the appeal be adverse to the convicted men it will be carried to the Supreme Court.

The basis of the appeal is outlined by Chester H. Krum of St. Louis and Elijah Zoline of Chicago, the counsel, is:

"That under the federal statutes there is no such crime as the conspiracy in which the men were convicted, namely, conspiracy to violate the law against the interstate shipment of explosives on passenger trains.

"That there being no such conspiracy the defendants could not have been guilty as principals in the carrying of explosives by Ortie E. McManigal and the McNamara.

"That the defendants did not have a fair trial."

District Attorney Charles W. Miller of Indianapolis has charge of the government's case, the brief which contains more than 700 pages.

Among those who are not appealing is Herbert S. Hockin, now serving a six-year term at Leavenworth. He was called the "Iago" of the conspiracy. It was charged that he not only carried dynamite and nitro-glycerine in a suit case, but that he gave information to detectives while in the confidence of his conspirators. At first he appeared among the defendants at the trial at Indianapolis, but later he was abandoned by his counsel and was kept in jail before the case went to the jury.

BROKEN RAIL EXAMINED.

Interestate Commerce Board Officials Inspect Scene of Train Wreck.

PROVIDENCE, Oct. 29.—Officials of the Interstate Commerce Commission today inspected the scene of the wrecking of the Gilt Edge express near Westerly last Saturday, where about 35 persons were injured. Earlier in the day the Rhode Island public utilities commission visited the scene.

The Interstate commission's party was composed of Commissioner C. C. McChord, Chief Engineer B. W. Belknap, Special Agents P. A. Howard and H. D. Lyon and Engineer E. W. Allen of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad. They made an inspection of the track, road bed and tracks for a mile on each side of the place where the train was derailed. The pieces of broken rail were also examined and will be sent to the bureau of standards at Washington for analysis and chemical tests to determine the cause of the break.

Commissioner McChord said that he would begin an investigation jointly with the public utilities commission in this city next Friday morning.

DYSPEPSIA AND CRIME.

A Right and Natural Diet Tends to Improve Quickness of Decision.

[Dundee Advertiser.]

In a lecture on the subject of "Diet and Dyspepsia" Dr. Josiah Oldfield amazed his hearers with the statement that in his opinion many a man [illegible] been hanged as a result of the [illegible] having a fit of indigestion. Indigestion, the doctor added, was the cause of half the world's miseries. [illegible] was said to be caused by intemperance, but in his opinion intemperance was secondary to indigestion. "It is said," added Dr. Oldfield, "that marriages are made in Heaven. That may be true, but certainly many [illegible] are marred at the breakfast table, and any one who gets up in the morning with a furred tongue and a [illegible] temper should at once put in seclusion and treated as a patient. He should not be allowed to spoil life's [illegible] by his intrusion of dyspeptic cantankerousness."

[illegible] after the lecture Dr. Oldfield [illegible] the assertion of Professor [illegible] of the Sorbonne, that vegetarianism was unsuited to the requirements of the [illegible] of European [illegible], and that it reduces energy, [illegible] will power and renders [illegible] less alert. "My experience of [illegible]," said Dr. Oldfield, "is that a right and natural diet tends to improve will power and quickness of decision. As in the case of Edison, to mention but one [illegible], it has been proved that the [illegible] workers of the world, the brightest, sharpest intellects, are those [illegible] by a fruitarian diet. M. Gau[illegible] says that he considers wine a [illegible] beverage. I agree with him, and [illegible] wine as an exceedingly valuable [illegible], but the general rule is observed [illegible] should be sipped and not [illegible]. If a man must gulp it down he [illegible] better drink turpentine!"

SAND AND LIME BRICKS.

[Omaha World-Herald.]

There is always something to surprise the rest of the world coming from Australia and New Zealand. The last [illegible] is to the effect that they are [illegible] bricks in Australia without [illegible], and that they are cheaper and better than the clay bricks. It appears [illegible] some Germans evolved a process to make bricks out of sand and lime and [illegible] none of the brickmaking concerns would have any thing to do with it. [illegible] The government started a brick [illegible] has been making large quantities of them and, as they can be manufactured cheaper than clay bricks, the [illegible] has been brought down.

Sand and limestone are very plentiful all over Australia and brick clay is [illegible] scarce, being found only in certain [illegible] localities. The action of the government shows that it will not permit [illegible] suppression of new inventions [illegible] they interfere with established [illegible], which is said to be [illegible] happening in most [illegible] governments of the world. It is [illegible] said that many important inventions have been bought up by great [illegible] concerns in this country and suppressed — inventions that would have been of great benefit to the people.

Mary Keener in "The Conspiracy."

A POLICE PLAY.

"The Conspiracy" Credited With Abundance of Thrills and Laughs.

More than ordinary interest attaches to the presentation by Charles Frohman of "The Conspiracy" at the Opera House Thursday evening, since it will mark the first performance here of the "police play of laughs and thrills," as it has been called, after its run of an entire season at the New York Garrick Theatre and an additional engagement of three months in Boston. "The Conspiracy," which is the work of Robert Baker and John Emerson, might be said to have set the fashion in under-world plays, since of all its kind it has displayed the greatest virility and met with the greatest favor.

The story is credited with an abundance of thrills and an unusual number of laughs. It tells of the efforts of a young girl, Margaret Holt, only narrowly escaped from threatening white slavery, to aid the district attorney in his attempt to track down "The Senile Band," as the crew of Tenderloin criminals to whom she owed her plight was called. In this crusade she has the aid of an irascible and peppery old newspaper writer, Winthrop Clavering, and her adventures, numerous and exciting, include a charge against her of murder. She is cleared of this and is largely instrumental in running down the criminals, but only after a succession of exciting experiences.

WILDING PLACED AT TOP.

Australian Heads List of Tennis Players; McLoughlin Needs Finish.

Anthony F. Wilding, thrice holder of the all-England lawn tennis championship title, heads the list of the players for the season in the estimation of the English critics. The famous Australian, furthermore, is credited with being the greatest and most formidable wielder of the racquet in the world. No official rating list is issued each year by the English as[illegible] as is customary in America. The critic "Argent" names the leaders each season, however, and his list is generally accepted as being a fair and impartial rating.

With Wilding at the top, the other nine men on the roll of honor are placed in the following order: John C. Parke, Gordon Lowe, A. E. Beamish, Charles P. Dixon, Stanley N. Doust, T. M. Mavrogordato, W. C. Crawley and H. M. Zimmerman. Six of this group have appeared on American courts, and with the single exception of Wilding, all have yielded to American players. In commenting on the ability of Wilding, who is sure to [illegible] the United States next year for the Davis cup matches, the critic says:

"Nobody [illegible] throng round the centre court at Wimbledon last [illegible] day of July to see the challenge of the [illegible] between A. F. Wilding, the holder, and M. E. McLoughlin, the young American challenger, could doubt, at its conclusion, that Wilding was the best man at present playing in this or any other country.

"The American boom stopped right there, and those who had been carried away by their enthusiasm to such lengths as to [illegible] to [illegible] by [illegible] to recognize sadly that it takes more than mere violence of attack to make a world's champion.

"Wilding, not only from the fact that he retains the championship but from the way in which he played to retain it, must not only be regarded as the best player of the year, but [illegible] having solidified and [illegible] his game to a higher measure of excellence than it had ever attained before.

"But Wilding [illegible] the old tradition of champions in not playing in many tournaments. [illegible] Wimbledon, he was seen only at the northern meeting at Manchester, and here he lost to the player whom most people would name as the man of the [illegible] year. [illegible] in at [illegible] as he did in [illegible], and [illegible] season [illegible] his great successes over Brookes and Heath in the Davis cup [illegible] last winter in Australia."

The English critic regards McLoughlin as undeveloped. In speaking of the Americans he says:

"But it was the Americans, McLoughlin, Williams and Johnson, who were [illegible] of the [illegible] of 1913. Probably more people witnessed McLoughlin's five [illegible] against Parke at Wimbledon, and [illegible] the [illegible] of Wilding against Parke and Dixon, in the Davis Cup, than ever looked on at any five matches in England before.

"It is not a very easy or a very enviable task to assign McLoughlin his place among the world's players of the present day, but it cannot be anywhere but very near the top...... He is a great player, but his game is by no means complete. If he can add a sound defense to the vehemence of his attack he will be more than a match for the best; at present, when his attack meets its master, he has nothing to back it up with.

"He shares with Gobert a greater promise of developing into the complete lawn tennis player than anybody else of our times, and Williams is nearly as good. Johnson's game is too careless, trifling and audacious. In McLoughlin and Williams America has two players who will make a big mark in the next few years."

BOOKS FOR YOUNG PEOPLE.

"Hawk, the Young Osage," for Boys, and "The Martie Twins," for Children.

"Hawk, the Young Osage," by C. M. Robinson, will interest boys. For what boy does not enjoy a good Indian book? And girls, too, have been known to read them as eagerly as their brothers. The story opens before the advent of white men in this country, when there were no horses or ponies in existence, and closes with the arrival of Spaniards in search of riches. Vasquez de Coronado and Hernando de Soto both figure in the tale.

The author gives a clear and graphic picture of the Indians of that time. The customs, habits and peculiarities which distinguished the Osages from other tribes are vividly described, with an account of how a Indian boy was educated in those days. Hawk, the young hero, early exhibits unusual courage and prowess for one of his age. His first hunt, when he kills a buck, is the turning point in his career, for after that great event he no longer associates with his boy friends in their mock sports, except to play ball, to harden his muscles. This he does not consider beneath his dignity, as great warriors usually engage in that pastime.

Hawk's initiation into the tribe as a warrior shows the cruelty of Indian customs. It is a terrible ordeal through which he must pass. From that time on he has many adventures, including rescuing an Indian maiden from the Pawnees, going on the warpath against his enemies, his experiences at the sacred spring, his revenge upon his enemies for their capture and murder of his mother, and his encounter with the white men. When he tells his friends of "sticks that spat out fire and made a noise like thunder" and of horses, which had never been seen in the country before, which were large animals which men could ride, his story can hardly be believed. From his description of these beasts the Osages thought they must be a large kind of dog and ever afterwards called them "mysterious dogs."

The decorations and illustrations are the work of the Avery Studio.

"The Martie Twins," by Alice E. Allen, is a continuation of "Joe, the Circus Boy," but can be read independently of the first book. It is a story of two orphaned children who are brought to the Bernard Home for Boys, even if one is a girl. The latter is smuggled in without the superintendent's knowledge and allowed to remain. The affection between these two mites as soon as they see each other is marvelous and their great fear is that some day they will be separated. When they are about nine years old their fears are realized and they both leave the home for new scenes. The experiences they have in reaching their destinations the accidents which befall them and the unraveling of the mystery of their birth make a delightful little story which both boys and girls will enjoy.

The book contains several grown-up people, including Nancy Spindle, who loves babies and takes the best care of them in the Bernard Home, and whose heart is broken when the Martie twins leave and go to separate towns; Miss June Wren, who lives at Wren's Nest, and is called Auntie Wren by all the children, and with whom twin Martha lives; Ben Baker, a mountain guide, to whom twin Martie owes a good deal and Mrs. Blake, the founder of the Home. Joe and Betty, who appear in an earlier book, are on the scene and help, with the aid of dog Fritz, to discover the whereabouts of the lost twins.

There are several illustrations by Dianatha Thorne Marlowe.

Deviled Kidneys

Remove the fat from four veal kidneys and with a sharp knife, cut the outer portion from each lobe, rejecting the central purplish or dark colored core. In doing this have the good portion in very thin chips. Melt one tablespoonful of butter in a frying pan; add the prepared kidneys, toss and stir over a quick fire for five minutes. Add a half teaspoonful of salt, a dash of paper and the merest pinch of grated nutmeg. Skim the kidneys from the pan and put in a hot dish. To the butter in the pan add one tablespoonful of flour and brown, then add one cupful of good beef stock, one tablespoonful Worchestershire, a dash of cayenne and a few drops of caramel coloring. When boiling take from the fire, add two tablespoonfuls of sherry and strain over the kidneys.

Cheese Strips.

Cut stale bread in thin slices, then in narrow strips, arrange on a wire broiler or toaster and toast golden brown: as they are apt to drop out in turning the utensil, it will often be found best to place the toaster on top of the range without uncovering the fire, lay the bread strips on it and turn with a fork as they color. While hot spread with soft butter, sprinkle thickly with grated cheese. Just lightly with paprika, spread on a flat pan and stand in a hot oven until the cheese melts and forms a crust over the toast. They are best when served hot, but often appear cold with the salad.

GIBSON FREED AND RE-ARRESTED.

Freed of the charge of murdering Mrs. Rosa Szabo, his client, Burton W. Gibson had a few moments of liberty before being arrested by a New York detective on indictments pending against the lawyer in connection with his handling of Mrs. Szabo's estate. Gibson was tried twice on the charge of causing the death of Mrs. Szabo by strangulation in Greenwood Lake July 16, 1912. Both juries disagreed and the court dismissed the indictment against Gibson.

NEW YORK LETTER.

New Tariff Bill Weighted With Political Possibilities for People of Gotham.

New National Feast Day—Society Women in Business—Fortune Forced on Policeman.

[Correspondence of the News.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—New York is watching with intense interest the effect of the new tariff bill in the promised reduction in the cost of living. That the people in this city have a large stake in the matter is shown by the fact that the city's annual food bill amounts to over $645,000,000 and that the largest items in this total are products on which duties have been removed by the Underwood-Simmons bill. If cheaper beef results from the free-listing of this article, for instance, it will make an appreciable difference in New York's meat bill, which now amounts to $175,000,000, with a yearly consumption of 880,000,000 pounds. Other products on which the tariff rates have been changed and which figure for large sums in the yearly budget of New Yorkers are sugar, 400,000,000 pounds; eggs, 150,000,000 dozen; potatoes 150,000,000 pounds, and bread, 900,000,000 loaves. It is doubtful if any previous tariff bill ever possessed so direct interest for the people of this city, or was weighted with such vast political possibilities.

This year for the first time a new national feast day is to be observed by some millions of Americans. This is apple day, for which the third Tuesday in October has been appointed. It falls this year October 21. On that day every patriotic citizen is expected to regale himself with apples, apple sauce, apple pie, and as many other of the 197 forms in which it is officially declared that apples may be made appetizing as happens to be available to him. The father of apple day is U. T. Border of Baltimore, an apple enthusiast, who has pointed out that while we have a fast day dedicated to the great American bird, the turkey, and the great American vegetable, the pumpkin, the great American fruit thus far is without any special recognition. As the charcteristic fruit of the nation undoubtedly is the apple, the day selected to do honor to it has been placed at the time when the boughs hang heavy with their rosy-cheeked burdens and when the pickers are gathering to the harvest. Undoubtedly the observance of apple day will prove popular with the entire younger generation, as well as with many of older years.

Society women, those who have the entree to New York's most exclusive circles and who keep up social obligations and spend their vacations in Newport or Europe, are also making places for themselves in the business world. Their field of endeavor is as broad and varied as their individualities. Of course art in its many phases has the call. The particular vocations that seem to offer most attraction to those accustomed to lives of ease and luxury are interior architecture, the decoration and furnishing of the homes of the wealthy, and landscape gardening in connection with such homes, though the hat shops and gown shops conducted by several ladies who enjoy the highest of family and social connections are patronized by the smartest and wealthiest members of society. One woman, whose family name is the open sesame to exclusive society, conducts a successful real estate business, while another earns a handsome income by operating a bureau of social requirements, acting as guide and mentor to those who are new to the rigors of the social game.

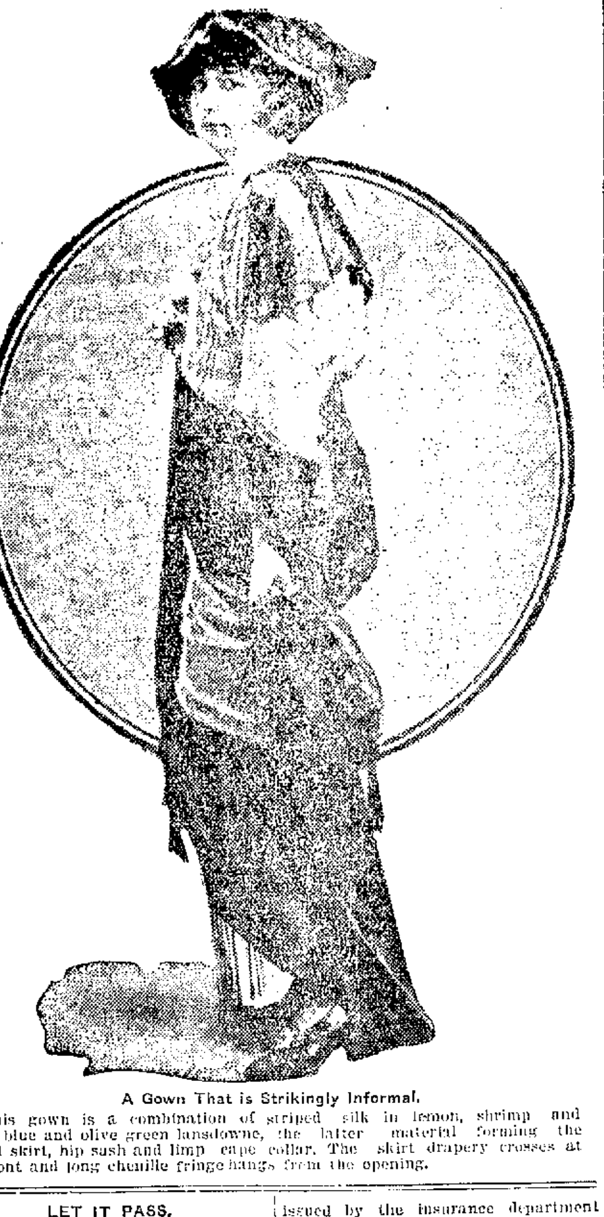

That the poor boy who is forced to make his own way in life still has opportunities to rise to the most commanding business positions, is demonstrated by the experience of Edward J. Nally, who has just been elected vice president and general manager of the largest wireless telegraph company in existence, with direct supervision of a system of communication that is rapidly being extended to all parts of the world. Mr. Nally began literally at the foot of the ladder, for his first job was that of a messenger boy in St. Louis. Presumably he was not the typical comic paper type of messenger boy, for he has traveled in the course of the past 30 years from this humble beginning to one of the most important positions in his chosen field of business. Like Thomas Edison, another messenger boy who climbed to fame, Mr. Nally is a tireless worker and an omniverous reader, which goes to show that it is true today no less than in earlier times that it matters not so much where a boy starts as how steadily he travels after his start.

That here in Gotham is a saloon owner, ex-policeman and politician upon whom it was necessary to virtually thrust nearly $30,000 in cold cash is a true story in refreshing contrast with the widely heralded tables of graft in such circles. It was more than 20 years ago that Thomas Meehan, now a candidate for alderman, received notice of the death of an aunt in England and advice that $28,000 had been bequeathed to him. "Oh, what a joke! If it only were true!" thought incredulous Thomas. Many documents followed from time to time telling him to put in a claim for the fortune, but the excitement of being a New York policeman evidently had more attraction for him than a mere $28,000, so he continued to use his nightstick on the heads of river front hoodlums. Finally the letters became so insistent that he decided to trace the jokers. He called upon the local British consul and communicated with English lawyers and soon was convinced that the legacy was not a myth. The lucky legatee recently went to England to collect his fortune.

Longacre.

EUROPE WILL NOT BREAK WITH AMERICA.

Commenting on the result of the Mexican elections, the London Caronicle finds much resemblance between the present aspect of affairs in the United States and that which preceded the Cuban war. The Daily News describes the election as a farce, and says: "Huerta's hope of embroiling the United States with the European powers is futile. There is a fair degree of ignorance and folly in European foreign offices, but they are not likely to quarrel with the United States for Huerta's 'beautiful eyes.' Time tells against Huerta, for the rebels are marching from victory to victory and after President Wilson's speech of yesterday no power can doubt that he is seeking neither conquest nor concession, but only the good of Mexico itself."

A Gown That is Strikingly Informal.

This gown is a combination of striped silk in lemon, shrimp and Dutch blue and olive green lansdowne, the latter material forming the draped skirt, hip sash and limp cape collar. The skirt drapery crosses at the front and long chenille fringe hangs from the opening.

LET IT PASS.

Be not swift to take offense,
Let it pass!
Anger is a foe to sense,
Let it pass!
Brook not daily o'er a wrong
Which will disappear ere long;
Rather sing this cheery song,
Let it pass,
Let it pass!

Strife corrodes the purest mind,
Let it pass!
As the unregarded wind
Let it pass!
Any vulgar souls that live
May condemn without reprieve,
'Tis the noble who forgive;
Let it pass,
Let it pass!

Echo not an angry word,
Let it pass!
Think how often you have erred,
Let it pass!
Since our joys must pass away
Like the dewdrops on the spray,
Wherefore should our sorrows stay?
Let them pass,
Let them pass!

If for good you're taken ill,
Let it pass!
Oh, be kind and gentle still!
Let it pass!
Time at last makes all things straight;
Let us not resent, but wait,
And our triumph shall be great;
Let it pass,
Let it pass!

Bid your anger to depart,
Let it pass!
Lay these homely words to heart,
Let it pass!
Follow not the giddy throng:
Better to be wronged than wrong,
Therefore sing the cheery song,
Let it pass,
Let it pass!

THE SALE OF NOMINATIONS.

Unless the documents shall be produced, convicting McCall of mendacity and Murphy of perjury, their denials of the payment of $15,000 for his nomination in 1902 by McCall must be accepted. The transaction charged by Sulzer's friend Hennessey is not entirely cleared up, however.

McCall says he was a candidate for the bench in 1902. Bird W. Coler was a candidate for governor and McCall made a campaign contribution to the committee in the usual form, for the good of the general party ticket and without reference to his own nomination. He does not remember the amount, which is unfortunate, and if he made it by check he could probably have refreshed his memory. He did not give any note, he says in the most positive terms. As he is charged with making his contribution by a note the issue is squarely joined here, and McCall's statement will be accepted without question unless it be overthrown by indubitable evidence.

Nevertheless, nominations have been sold, and judicial nominations have been sold in New York, only the transaction was disguised as a campaign contribution. One judge, a distinguished man, refused to give [illegible], and the demand must have been made before the nomination, as another man was named in his place. This was understood at the time as the usual charge for such a nomination. It was a few years before McCall's nomination to the bench.

A campaign contribution exacted as a condition of a nomination differs in no material respect from the purchase price of the nomination. In some counties in Pennsylvania there was an established schedule of fees which aspirants must pay in order to have their names proposed in a convention. This was not a sale, but it excluded every man who wouldn't pay $25 or $50 or $100 for a chance to be voted for in the convention. The primary election law has probably put an end to this, for it has [illegible] out most of the conventions. From transactions of this sort and the exaction of campaign contributions as a condition precedent to a nomination, the step to the actual buying and selling is not very wide. While McCall's statement is conclusive, it would be interesting to know how much his campaign contribution was, and whether he did not give some indication of a readiness to do the usual thing before the nomination was given him.

WHAT SUBSTITUTE FOR COMPETITION?

President Van Hise of Wisconsin University, where we are accustomed to note the most advanced thought of the age, fully up-to-date and usually a few days in advance, denounces the Sherman law for enforcing competition, though the general [illegible] has seen its inutility. Competition, he says, is wasteful, combination would afford the possibility of limiting output, dividing the country into areas to be served by different concerns, and maintaining prices.

As to the last, most people think there has been too much of it already. The Steel Corporation was not wholly successful in its attempted a large measure of price maintenance. After a period of limited production by throwing half its employes out of employment, and it held prices as high [illegible] and times as in good until some of the smaller producers cut them in order to secure some business and keep their wheels turning. To most of us economy means our own economy and not that of the big producers, and we do not see how our own economy is to be promoted by allowing the big producers to combine, suppress competition and maintain prices at whatever figures they like.

As a matter of fact, he constantly [illegible] ever going to submit to [illegible]

Brooks Adams believes the era of competition is closing, and therefore he looks to price regulation by the government. Is that what Dr. Van Hise advocates? If we cannot maintain competition, or if we ought not to do so because competition is wasteful, then we must have government commissions to tell every man what he may charge for his wares, and about the only practicable regulation would be government ownership of a part at least of the producing concerns. We might have the government fixing prices by a commission, or by the operation of large factories in each line of production and of all or a good part of the railroads of the country. Of course that means either the socialistic state or a paternal and bureaucratic government like that of Germany. Meanwhile, some of us still think competition is wholesome and can be maintained.

MORTALITY FROM ORGANIC AND PREVENTABLE DISEASE.

For the second time in four months New York has recorded a lower death rate than was ever known in that city previously. The first instance was in June and the second has just occurred. This lowering of the record twice within so short a time has been gratifying to the health authorities and should be a matter of much satisfaction also to the people generally. It has also given good ground for hope that it means a permanent decrease in the death rate, except for times of special sickness or epidemic. Taken by itself it is an evidence that the healthfulness of the residents of New York is improving, while as an augury for the future it is a hopeful indication that still further improvement may be expected provided the same care and attention are given to the public health as in the immediate past and at the present time.

An examination of the returns of deaths in detail shows that those from all infectious diseases except diphtheria were decreased, while those due to organic ailments were more numerous. This is illuminating, as it reveals the fact that modern sanitation is gradually reducing the mortality from preventable diseases, while those ills which are the development of the stress and strain of urban life, affecting the vital organs, weakening them and decreasing their power of resistance and natural tendency to normal action, are gaining in severity and adding constantly to the death rate.

There are lessons which should be learned from these conditions, but they are ignored by many and learned but slowly by others. They are reminders that men and women are living at too fast a pace, are violating too much the laws of health, are forming habits of life which seriously affect the digestion, the lung power and the heart action, and make sickness more common, weakness more dangerous and vitality less evident. These are conditions which the public health authorities can do little to remedy except by exhortation and advice, and that seems to have only slight effect in most cases. It is a matter where personal attention and action alone can count, and care of individual health appears to be the last thought of many.

It is a matter of much regret that the decrease in the mortality from preventable diseases which has followed new developments in sanitation and the discovery of new methods of treatment or new remedies for such ailments is not accompanied by a similar reduction in the number of deaths from organic diseases, so that the rate from all causes might be lowered as it happily is from one class of ills to which humanity is heir. That it might be so is evident if attention were paid by the multitude to personal care of the health, but that such attention is not given is only too obvious, not only from the reports of the death rate from diseases which grow out of wrong ways of living and bad habits of working, but also by noting the daily routine of those who come under observation in business and social circles. Perhaps some day people will realize how foolishly they are exposing themselves to disease and throwing away their lives, but until that time the death rate from organic will continue to be much higher than that from preventable diseases, and this ignoring of conditions which can be remedied will be the chief cause of a higher rate of mortality than ought to be recorded, in large cities especially and to a lesser degree all over the country.

Dr. Beck's statement of the extravagances of the fire department before the Representative Council, was enlightening, but the friends of the present over-crowded, expensive system mustered strength enough to defeat the resolution for a re-organization of this branch of the city government. There is no doubt that Newport's fire department is overloaded with houses and men, that, while efficient in many respects, it is not well balanced; and that there are many ways in which it could be made more effective, at a considerable lessening of cost. Some time, possibly, at a not very distant day, a change will be made.

Great Britain, Germany and France having agreed to adopt no new policy toward Mexico until the United States government can submit for their consideration a definite plan for the future treatment of the republic, it is expected that no announcement will be made by the Washington authorities until a reasonable time has been given the Huerta government to declare the result of the recent election and its future plans. Then there will be concerted action by the United States and the European powers to settle the Mexican trouble.

The taxpayers will have the opportunity to say which of two sites they prefer for a new schoolhouse in place of the old Clarke building. One proposition would give the School Committee the opportunity to construct a building adapted to the needs of the department, while the other would compel the city to take a building not well suited to the purpose.

The Representative Council quickly settled the proposed Broadway widening. There were too many plans, of widely differing character, to give opportunity for a fair discrimination between them, and the necessity for a public improvement at the price named was not evident. On the whole, the Council acted wisely in the matter.

It is well that the municipal campaign in New York will not last much longer. It has already become superheated.

The Representative Council was evidently disposed to do something, and did it quickly.

At last Newport is to have a new police station. It is full time.

How Chief Kirwin will whisk about in his new automobile!

AFRAID OF MARRIAGE.

The American Business Girl Said to Prefer Her Independence.

[T. P's Weekly.]

It appears that the American girl will not marry because she is too well off. In this country lack of opportunity is often set out as a reason. It appears that in America there are 9,000,000 unmarried women and 8,000,000 men unmarried.

Mrs. Anna Dowling, a publisher, says that her observation of New York forces her to the conclusion that women will not marry because they do not want the bother of having a man around all the time. Take the case of a young stenographer who is earning from £2 10s. to £3 a week. She has agreeable companionship in her office, is always nicely dressed, keeps her hands manicured, and goes to Coney Island every Sunday. Suppose she was married. She would have to take a man who is earning not more than £3 10s. a week—that is the only kind she meets. Marriage would mean giving up her dainty existence for a dingy flat, with a "great, hulking, cranky man to wait on all the time." This presupposes that husband and wife will jockey about, each seeking to avoid work, or responsibility.

"It's only the shiftless women," says Mrs. Dowling, "who get married. The girl who wants to loaf about in a kimona all day gets married because she is too lazy to support herself. Life in New York is easy for that kind of woman. All she has to do is to make a cup of coffee and serve it with baker's rolls in the morning to her husband, make a bed or two, and visit a ham and beef shop just before he comes home at night. The rest of the day she can hang out of the window gossiping with her neighbors."

There is a type of American woman, Mrs. Dowling admitted, who marries simply for the sake of having children.

One regrets to add that Mrs. Dowling's views find very general support. Those girls who refrain from marrying because they are comfortable in business life are quoted in New York as 30 per cent of the city's unmarried women, and another 20 per cent will not marry the average man because they think there is a chance of trapping an American millionaire. All this is controversial, and causes one to compare American and British conditions. Are girls fastidious in their choice? Or are men afraid of having to support millstones round their necks?

MIDDLETOWN.

[Regular correspondence of The News.]

Aquidneck Grange had a delegation of 51 members at Neighbors' night at Nonaquaket Grange Monday evening, a number going in automobile parties from Middletown. Remarks were made by Worthy State Master J. A. Peckham, Worthy Master of Aquidneck Grange Mrs. May Chase Spooner, Rev. E. E. Wells and Mr. Fred P. Webber. Music was furnished by Mr. John H. Peckham, tenor, accompanied by Mrs. Peckham.

Mrs. John Conley will act as hostess at the Paradise Club, conducting the subject, "William Cullen Bryant."

Mrs. Mary W. Lawton, as delegate from the Methodist Episcopal Church to the Sunday School convention, was in Providence Tuesday and today.

Mrs. Lionel H. Peabody and her younger daughter, Miss Lydia Peabody, are guests of Mr. Lionel H. Peabody, Jr., and family in Providence. Miss Peabody expects to remain for an extended visit with her brother.

The schools will close today for the remainder of the week, the teachers attending the Institute in Providence Thursday and Friday.

The roadway approaching Green End pond from the east has recently been presenting an odd appearance. Rolled up on either side of the highway was what looked to be suds, which on close observation proved to be the fine fuzz from the inside of the cat-o'-nine tails which largely cover Hillside pond. The "tails" had broken open and the heavy winds had scattered their fluffy contents on each side of the road.

Carpenters and masons are complaining of being weeks behind their work, owing to the bad weather. There seems to be an unusual amount of work going on.

TO COLLECT INCOME TAX.

Government Regulations for Getting at the "Source" of Revenue.

Regulations concerning the method by which the officials of the internal revenue department will collect the income tax "at the source" upon the interest from bonds, mortgages, deeds of trust and similar obligations have just been issued by the government. The feature of the law covered by the regulation just issued is the most complicated in the entire legislation, and has caused much uncertainty and confusion among corporation officers, banks, business houses and owners of bonds and other obligations who are obliged to collect the amount of tax and pay it over to the government, or be personally liable for it.

Under the rulings of the Treasury Department the corporations are to deduct interest on all coupons or orders for registered interest which bear certificates of ownership. In the event that the coupons do not have attached to them these certificates it will be the duty of the first bank or collecting agency that receives the coupons to deduct the tax and pay it to the government. In the latter case the banks and collecting agencies are obliged to attach certificates giving the name and address of the owner of the coupons, or if the owner is not known the name of the person presenting them for collection.

The tax is not to be withheld on coupons or registered interest maturing and payable before March 1, 1913. The section of the law requiring the withholding of the tax at the source does not go into effect until November 1 next.

The situation is further complicated for the taxpayer through the fact that the Treasury Department has been obliged to adopt an emergency measure because of the brief period that remains before corporations will be forced to withhold the tax.

Many coupons payable November 1 are already in transit without the prescribed certificate. In cases of this sort the Treasury Department has prescribed a special certificate for which the regular certificates of ownership may be substituted with the debtor corporation by the bond owner at any time before February 1, 1914, and the regular exemption obtained.

Under a recent ruling of the Treasury Department, corporations will be allowed to file returns for their fiscal year, instead of for the calendar year, as at first it was thought they would have to do. For the first year of making the return under the new law, which became effective October 3, the corporations will file returns showing their net incomes for the calendar year of 1913, and will give notice if they wish to file returns for their fiscal year. This notice must be filed with the collector of internal revenue at least 30 days before the fiscal year expires, and for 1914 the corporations will be allowed to file a return from January 1, 1914, to the end of their fiscal year, instead of for the whole of the fiscal year.

TRADES COURSE FOR GIRLS.

New York Agricultural School to Teach Dressmaking and Millinery.

[New York Evening Post.]

The New York state school of agriculture at Morrisville, established by the state four years ago to provide a practical education for those young people who are interested in the affairs of the farm and the home, has broadened its course, and has this year added to its curriculum a complete trades course in dressmaking and millinery.

This new course is a result of many inquiries from young women who are desirous of fitting themselves to take up dressmaking and millinery as a profession, and also from young women and matrons who are desirous of becoming more proficient in their home dressmaking and millinery. In providing these courses the management feels that it is helping to provide for a growing need in the industrial life of the country, for as yet there have been but very few institutions to give training in those trades that are so necessary to the welfare of the country communities.

The school is well equipped for the new work. Apparatus for the dressmaking has been installed, consisiting of sewing machines, a fitting room equipped with dress forms, and all other necessary accessories. Equipment for the millinery work is being supplied.

Miss Alice A. Bolton of Richfield Springs, N. Y., who has had several years of successful experience in teaching these subjects in one of the largest girls' schools in the country, has been engaged to instruct the pupils of the state.

The courses, which will begin November 4 and continue until June, will occupy only one year, and are open to any girl, the only entrance requirements being normal health, good moral character, 17 years of age, and completion of the work of the eighth grade. There is no tuition to residents of the state, and the necessary expenses are very moderate.

A POSTAL PAWNSHOP.

Italian Government to Make Loans on Ornaments of Poorer Classes.

[Tit-Bits]

It is rare that a pawnshop is a vital part of the national life of a people, but such is the case in Italy. This is true to such an extent that the government is now considering a plan by which the people may be relieved from the excessive rates of interest they are compelled to pay to private brokers. According to an Italian newspaper, the great curse of the Italian poorer classes is their vanity, the savings which they might put in the bank being devoted to the purchase of ornaments of gold or silver. When the time of need comes these articles go to the pawnshops, of which there is a great deficiency, the total number being 533 to 8,262 communes.

The majority charge a rate which, with the government tax, amounts to fully 15 per cent, many of the shops working on borrowed capital being compelled to charge this rate to make a profit. In 1896 there were 6,513,458 articles pawned, on which were raised 103,830,735 lire. Of this number of pledges, 411,607 were abandoned. The government now proposes to utilize the money—some 900,000,000 lire—which has been accumulated by the poorer classes in the postal savings funds, for the purpose of making loans on precious metal. The loans will be made at a low rate of interest, and the entire postal system will be adapted to the use of the department. It will thus be possible to pawn an article in any portion of the kingdom, and take it out elsewhere.

CRITICALLY ILL.

Dr. Barker, Mending from Typhoid Fever, Suffers Shock at the Hospital.

Dr. Christopher F Barker is reported as critically ill at the hospital and not likely to recover. He has been at the hospital three weeks suffering from typhoid fever, and while he had it quite severely it had been considered that he was mending until Monday, when he had a shock which further complicated matters in his already weakened condition. His son, Dr. Williston W. Barker has been sent for and it is considered that the situation is very grave.

STORY OF LOCAL HISTORY.

Manager Rugen's Picture Plan Strikes Popular Chord.

The plan of Manager Rugen of the Opera House to have a story in motion pictures, built around a local historical happening, has struck a popular chord even before the picture has been made. Not only have local historians volunteered to review the story and see that it is strictly correct, but offers are being made of other stories for the sake of presenting to the people of Newport bits of history which are noted by but few. Newport is rich in romance and patriotism, and with the corps of prominent women who are coming forward to offer their assistance to Mr. Rugen it would seem as if the city is likely to learn about its past more thoroughly than one would think possible before the days of the motion picture.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

—Mrs. Birchhead has gone to New York.

—Inspector Casey of Worcester came here Tuesday and took home the two girls the police had taken in for the Worcester police.

—Mr. T. I. Dwyer, who has been spending his vacation in Bermuda, has resumed his duties at the Newport Reading Room.

—The marriage of Miss Nancy G. Steele to Mr. Devereux Milburn, a well known polo player, will take place at Westbury, Long Island, Saturday.

—The Park Commission was due to meet Tuesday and one of the members had given up a fishing for nothing. The board will have another try.

—The public schools will be closed Thursday and Friday to enable the teachers to attend the sessions of the Rhode Island Institute of Instruction in Providence.

—Another small draft of recruits to fill the ever occurring vacancies in the ranks of the companies at the forts arrived this morning. Some of the men came in civilian clothes.

—The Newport Poster Advertising company is re-building a number of the billboards which it has acquired and the Opera House has put out a separate outfit of three sheet boards.

—Commodore James's auxiliary bark-rigged yacht Aloha arrived from New York early this morning and the crew at once began stripping her at her winter berth at Sullivan's wharf.

—Councilman J. P. Sullivan, City Solicitor Sullivan and Judge Burke went to Providence this afternoon to attend the meeting of the Public Utilities Commission and the hearing on the Water Works valuation schedule.

—It looks as if Newport would shortly cease to be the headquarters for the torpedo boat destroyers. One division leaves this afternoon for Charleston, another goes Thursday and the others with the Dixie will be away Friday.

—The police had two sailors, charged with mutual assault, before Judge Franklin this morning. After some explanation one was discharged and the other fined $10 and costs. A man for drunkenness pleaded not guilty and had his case continued.

—The street mail boxes are receiving a coat of green paint. Some time since there was a story published about the country that the boxes were to be painted red, but either there has been a change or the orders were not issued. A good red is one of the hardest colors to hold its brilliancy.

—The Sakonnet River Oyster Company had 17 barrels of mackerel, and some cod, butterfish and whiting Tuesday; Captain Jim Fortin had 12 barrels of bluefish, the Oriole had five and Captain Rose five. One hundred barrels of mackerel came over from Block Island.

—One of D. E. Young's drivers had an experience this morning, when a rear wheel departed from his outfit, making three parts of it, the wheel in one direction, the driver in another, while the horse and wagon with three wheels continued in still another. No one was hurt, but the axle was broken; that caused the trouble

—Miss Alice Lee of Boston, who is to give an address Friday at the Channing parlors, will be guest of Miss Ellen E. Mason on Rhode Island avenue while here. Mrs. John W. Burgess will preside at the gathering, which will be non-partisan, Miss Lee's subject will be "The Conditions in California since women have had the vote."

—The men at fire headquarters are taking advantage of every day when the streets are in good condition to become accustomed to the running of the new automobile apparatus. To be a skillful chauffeur of any kind of automobile requires practice and waiting around for an alarm of fire does not give much experience for the time when action is necessary.

—Patrick Fitzpatrick, who died this morning after a long illness incident to old age, was a well known gardener and a veteran of the Civil war, having served in the navy. He was a member of the local Grand Army Post, and one of the oldest members of the Father Matthew Total Abstinence Society, in which he was prominent until his declining years prevented him from taking an active part in its affairs.

—A section of the board walk in front of the restaurant at the beach has been barricaded. This is the portion of thin material which was allowed to remain when the walk was built, and which is now so thin that it is considered dangerous even for the winter travel. People are still going to the beach and find pleasure on the walk, while there are still several who are taking regular dips in the water.

—This morning Officer Coggeshall, while looking over his beat, found in an old and dilapidated house on Whitney court an elderly woman who evidently was in need of medical aid, as she was very weak. City Physician Keenan was called in and had the patient taken to the hospital. She had been ill about two weeks. There is talk of the Board of Health condemning the old house, which has served as a human habitation and a henhouse, and it is feared is suitable for neither.

DR. BECK'S CHARGES.

He Should be Required to Prove Them or They Should be Refuted.

Efficiency of the Fire Department and the Safety of the City Demand an Investigation.

To the Editor of The Daily News:

Dear Sir: The astounding revelations—if such they are—of Dr. Beck, made before the Representative Council last evening, in regard to the fire department in this city, certainly call for an examination into the charges. If they are true, our condition here is deplorable; if they are untrue, the position that Dr. Beck has placed himself in is equally deplorable. He has, practically, made charges of a most serious nature, and it is indeed strange that when the question was put to the house for a committee to investigate this subject, it was voted down, without any argument or debate.

Either Dr. Beck is guilty of grave error, or worse, and untruthful in his statements. If he has told the truth, we are in the greatest possible danger from fire or conflagration, advancement of insurance rates, and the position of being placed by the action of those who voted against the proposition in a "fools' paradise."

What earthly objection could those who voted against his measure have in not desiring to know the truth? I presume that many of these same men, who so voted, own property, real estate and otherwise. They should have been only too glad to have learned the truth, either to the detriment of Dr. Beck or to the detriment of the city.

The efficiency, or inefficiency, of a fire department in any community is of serious and vital importance. Either Dr. Beck should prove his charges, or he should be called upon to refute them if they are not true, and this can only be done by the chief of the fire department and those connected therewith. If the department remains in silence, there will be grave doubts in the minds of the people. This matter should not rest in the Representative Council, but should be taken up at the earliest possible moment, and, if necessary, through other means.

Will Dr. Beck publish the facts, as he presented them last night, and will the chief of the fire department answer him, either denying or affirming them, in the same manner? The citizens of Newport, certainly, are entitled to know the truth.

FOR SUMMER RESORT.

Lynch Estate on Easton's Point Being Rapidly Developed.

The development of the Lynch estate on Easton's point has progressed so far that one may now gain some idea of the great amount of work which is to be done to place the plat on the market as a summer resort. The terracing of the short bank has been completed and grass is now growing on it. The sunken walk at the base of these slopes is well advanced and in places practically completed, while at others where retaining walls for the slope were needed the walk has yet to be constructed. It is to be a great improvement over the old trodden walk.

Considerable sewering of the plat has already been done, and at present the gang is building roads. These after grading are to be of sheet pavement, with broad, grassy walks on either side. The sewers and other service pipes will be buried in these strips of grass, where they will be more convenient to reach. It will take all winter to put the place into such condition that it will be possible to show the plat to prospective buyers. Every contingency is being met to assure a high-class colony.

FASHIONS FOR DOGS.

[Birmingham Mercury.]

The very newest and most striking sartorial effect for dogs includes a knitted jacket, a gold necklet and a pair of patent leather shoes. Ordinary sweaters have long been fashionable for dogs, and some of the small beasts who suffer very much from the cold have been seen during the last winter with two coverings while out on promenade. The under wrap was a tight-fitting sweater, which extended to quite a distance over the animal's legs. Over this garment was worn the usual blanket coat, which was formerly considered quite sufficient as a wrap.

The fashionable small dog has always its monogrammed handkerchief, which are smartly tucked in the pocket of its coat or sweater. Boots to be worn when it is allowed to play in the streets or garden, and taken off when it enters the house, are also not infrequently a feature of its wardrobe. Motor goggles are considered necessary for some dogs, since they are as fond of the motor car and suffer as do human beings from wind and dust when their eyes are unprotected during a long and rapid run.

SCHOOL SPIRIT AROUSED.

Rogers Pupils Start for Football Game, Only to be Disappointed.

The pupils of the Rogers High School attended in large numbers, immediately after school this afternoon, the mass meeting held in the assembly hall. It was a decidedly interesting and helpful meeting and a lively interest was shown in the athletic contests to be held in the future, giving a promise of much larger attendance and more substantial support to the teams.

After the meeting a large proportion of those present started for the football game with the Durfee High School of Fall River. Then Captain Jemail received a telephone message from Fall River, stating that the members of the Durfee team had missed the train and could not reach here to play. The suggestion was made that large moving vans be engaged to bring the team here, Rogers to pay half the expense, but this arrangement was not satisfactory; the Fall River representative said that the team could not come and that the game was off. Already many of the pupils were on their way to the game, only to be disappointed on their arrival.

Furber I. Marshall, president of the Athletic Association, occupied the chair at the mass meeting and it 2 the pupils to stand back of the teams and furnish the encouragement which large attendance and lively cheering give to the players. William G. Sweeney, manager of the basketball team, spoke on the need of a school spirit, and was followed by Head Master Frank E. Thompson, who urged the pupils to give hearty support to the teams, saying that if as large a crowd attended the home games as went to Providence last year for the Technical High game there would be no lack of encouragement to the players.

The school sang "Fair Rogers" with a spirit that showed a renewed interest in the games, and Emil Jemail, captain of the football team, spoke along the same lines as the others. The school then sang "When we are in the game," another school song, a collection was taken and all agreed to go out to the game, many leaving at once for the Vernon Avenue play field.

STATE TROOPS AT TRINIDAD.

Violence in Southern Colorado Coal Fields Due to Imported Guards.

DENVER, Oct. 29.—The first of the state troops ordered into the strike zone of the Southern Colorado coal fields by Governor Ammons arrived at Trinidad early today. Before nightfall it is expected that the entire National Guard of Colorado, consisting of more than 1,000 men, will be in camp near Trinidad ready to preserve order around the mines.

President John McLennan of the State Federation of Labor has issued a call for a mass meeting to protest against the presence of the militia, declaring all violence there was due to imported mine guards.

Early this morning wires between Trinidad and mining camps were tapped by strikers, who answered all telegraph and telephone calls

QUIET IN STRIKE ZONE.

Martial Law to be Enforced in Mining Camps Around Trinidad.

TRINIDAD, Col., Oct. 29.—Conditions in the strike zone were quiet early today, with mine guards and strikers awaiting developments when the Colorado National Guard actually takes charge of the situation. Trains bearing approximately 600 men arrived here or were nering the city today.

Martrial law will not be enforced in Trinidad, but will be established in the mining camps surrounding this cit. Crowds of strikers waited throughout the night for the arrival of troop trains. No demonstration was made when the men detrained. The militiamen were held in Trinidad this morning while Adjutant General John Chase toured the district to determine upon the disposition of the troops.

Approximately 360 guardesmen reached Walsenburg for duty in the Huerfano county camps.

In this city four were drowned and the village of Vera Paz is reported destroyed, with all its inhabitants. The precipitation was 10 inches.

CONDITIONS UNSATISFACTORY.

Michigan Opposed to Return to Western Inter-Collegiate Conference.

ANN HARBOR, Mich., Oct. 29.—By a vote of 15 to 10, the University of Michigan football team yesterday registered itself as opposed to a return to the Western Inter-Collegiate Conference under present conditions. The vote was taken by the Michigan Daily, the student publication of the university. The base ball and track teams last night voted 14 to 10 in favor of return. Two of the men were non-committal.

SCHOOL BOYS AS MECHANICS.

[New Bedford Standard.]

A bulletin of the United States bureau of education says boys in the Ishpeming, Mich., high school repair the school buildings for pay, conduct a co-operative school farm for profit and are about to erect a gymnasium for their school in the same businesslike way they have learned to do other things for themselves and the community. All this work is under the direct supervision of the regular school authorities. For the last six years high school students from the manual training department have been employed to repair the various city school buildings. During one summer $2,000 was thus paid for student labor. The boys have repaired roofs, laid cement floors, built brick walls and installed plumbing fixtures. The gymnasium to be erected by the boys is from plans drawn by seniors in the high school.

We are led to wonder if there are no labor unions in Ishpeming, Mich., or if there are if they are reconciled to such condition. In this part of the world there are always mutterings against the employment of boys in work to perform work which is now is allotted to adults, and any such wholesale operation as that in the Michigan town would certainly evoke angry protests.

WIRELESS OF THE FUTURE.

Successful Cable Work Over Great Distances Done by Automatic Relays.

[London Mail.]

With the progress in efficiency now being effected, wireless telegraphy is making steady strides towards replacing the cable, or at least competing with it, for all long-distance work. Much very successful cable work is done today over great distances by what are known as automatic relays. The strength of the electric current sent through a long cable gradually diminishes until it becomes too weak to serve the purposes of signalling, so that messages have to be read and re-transmitted from time to time en route. But if before this occurs the current is passed into a relay, this instrument amplifies, with the aid of a fresh source of electric power, these weak currents and automatically sends off a fresh message, so that without any intermediary operators telegrams can be sent over a great distance very rapidly.

But now take the wireless current, or "radiation," which travels at such a rate that it circles the globe in one-fifth part of second. Make these signals strong enough and have sufficiently delicate receiving apparatus, and direct telegraphy from England to Australia or China becomes possible.

Such distances are not accomplished yet, but 4,000 miles and more are being considered commercially where 2,000 were considered two years ago. Wireless work of the future will be long-wave wireless, waves sent out into space five, ten and more miles each in length, where a very few years ago they were only 300 to 600 yards. And with greater distances covered, larger amounts of power are being transmitted also. The current is measures in microamperes the millionth part of the current taken by the average hundred-candle lamp is a micro-ampere, but far less than this amount suffices when passed through a telephone to give an audible signal.

SHAMROCK IV TO BE TOWED.

Lipton's Intention Not in Accord With the Deed of Gift of Cup.

It has been reported by cable that Sir Thomas Lipton intends to have his cup challenger Shamrock IV towed across the Atlantic. This is not in accordance with the deed of gift, which says that the challenging yacht must proceed from her home port to the course on which the races are to be sailed on her own bottom and under canvas. In arranging the conditions to govern the cup races no mention was made of towing and Sir Thomas has assumed that he can do as he did with his former challengers.

When he first challenged he had met with some mishap with the challenger, which prevented his leaving the other side as early as he wished. He asked the New York Yacht Club if it would sanction his towing the yacht when the wind was so light that it could not sail or in head winds, and the New York Yacht Club agreed.

When he challenged again he took this action as establishing a precedent, and the Shamrock II and III were towed nearly all the way across the ocean. The only advantage of this to the challenger is that, instead of losing four or five weeks in sailing, the yacht arrived here in good time and had some time for tuning-up.

Whether the New York Yacht Club will agree to this method of crossing the Atlantic this time is not known and the members of the cup committee decline to talk on the matter until it is formally brought to their attention. It is certain, though, that the cup committee does not favor this change in the conditions.

Towing a racing yacht, however, does it more harm than good. A racing yacht is constructed to be driven through the water and not to be hauled bow first. To tow a yacht puts it under stresses it was not designed to withstand, and often towing will pull a hull out of shape, and sometimes cause the seams to open and the yacht to leak.

The Shamrock II when she arrived was leaking badly. Some of her rivets had been sheered off, and those on board had difficulty in keeping the yacht afloat for the last part of the voyage. It was said then that the trouble had been caused by the strain of the method of pulling the hull through the seas and not allowing it to take the seas easily as she would if under sail.

Little credence is given to the report that the Columbia is to be put in commision and used as a trial boat. The Columbia is a 90-footer and was built under a rule which allowed freakish features and an enormous sail spread. As a trial boat she would be of little use. Under the present system of rating and time allowance she would allow so much time that the smaller modern yacht would always win. The Columbia would probably sail away from the new defender, and the two yachts would not be sailing under the same weather conditions.

It will not be necessary to have the Columbia for a trial horse, as it is certain that other defenders will be built, but the plans for these are maturing slowly. At present it looks as if two and perhaps three defenders will be built, and with three or four yachts racing there will be no necessity of a trial boat which is of a different type and much larger in every way than the present-day 75-footers.

MONROE DOCTRINE HAS ENEMIES.

Present Generation Need Have no Fear of Abandonment, However.

Southerners Protest Against Oriental Immigration—Absence of Quorum Demoralizes.

[Washington correspondence to the News.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—It will take longer to abandon the Monroe doctrine than it will to get rid of the Philippines. For that reason the present generation need not do much worrying over the subject unless it affords amusement to discuss such topics. But there are a lot of well informed men who believe that it would be well to abandon the Monroe doctrine in the interest of better relations with the southern republics.

The very fact that it is still a cardinal principle of the United States makes those countries feel that they are in tutelage, which is absurd when we consider the size, strength and resources of Argentine, Brazil and Chili. Probably there is not the least danger that foreign government will try to subvert any of the American republics.

There are other people who think that the continuance of the Monroe doctrine entails too much responsibility upon this country. It means to them that if we maintain it we must police the American continent. At the demand of foreign governments we must see that the southern republics keep order, preserve the lives and property of foreign nations and pay their debts to the foreigners.

Carried out literally it would mean that we must intervene in Mexico, but no one wants the Monroe doctrine construed in that way. And it will not be by the present administration.

Japanese and other orientals are not wanted in the Southern states, as is evidenced by the protests when it was reported they were buying lands in Florida. Southern men have always been in favor of labor restriction because they do not want the lower classes of southern Europe settling in their section. They welcome immigration from the Northern states and those who come from northern Europe, but they will object strongly to orientals. Southern men were outspoken in support of California and her contest with the Japanese.

The absence of a quorum in the House and the firm position of Minority Leader Mann in refusing to consent to leaves of absence unless on account of illness is having a bad effect in the House. Here is a result perpetrated by one who remembered his Longfellow:

> Leaves of absence all remind us
> Not at fate should we complain,
> For Jim Mann intends to bind us
> Tightly with a quorum chain.

The mere fact that it is known that President Wilson favors the election of Congressman Underwood to the Senate is helping him a great deal. Up to the time that Underwood entered the contest Congressman Hobson was having things his own way, but the reports received in Washington indicate that the Underwood campaign is going forward with a rush.

Senator Ashurst, who protested so vigorously against the practice of the Senate "pingponging" from Monday to Thursday and from Thursday to Monday without doing any business, says that as a matter of fact, Congress is just "pretending" to be in session. "There is no use in trying to combine a vacation with business," says the Arizona Senator. "I have no desire to stop vacations, but I object to most of the members of the Senate taking vacations, leaving a few here, adjourning for three days at a time. Let's go to work or stop entirely."

Occasionally a man in debate lets down the bars so that some one may walk right in and trample on him. Such was the case with Congressman Bowdle of Ohio one day when there was "scrapping" going on in the House. He referred to Jim Mann's assertion that he (Mann) felt like a fighting cock. "I want to say to this House now that I feel like a hen," declared Bowdle.

"And looks it!" snapped Mann.

Of course there was nothing but uproar and laughter after that. Although Bowdle later got off some good things about being arrested by wire the first time he returned home and the necessity for having his clothes repaired, [illegible] "political fences," it was all lost because he lost an opening at the begining.

"No man in this House has taken," said Ben Johnson of Kentucky to the House, "half so much vilification from the papers of Washington as I have." That is what he gets for being chairman of the committee on District of Columbia. It is one of the marvels of Congressional life that a man is willing to serve on the District committee.

SAVING GOLD DUST.

Ordinary Sweepings and Soot From Refinery Chimneys Valuable.

[Tit-Bits.]

The dust in gold working is a valuable asset. Starting with the refining of gold, it may be mentioned that many thousands of pounds' worth of gold are recovered from the soot in the chimneys of the refineries, such having floated there in the shape of dust. Such gold is chemically recovered, and forms no inconsiderable portion of a refiner's profits.

In the working of gold a wonderful illustration may be mentioned in connection with the manufacture of one of our most advertised pens. Men from morning to night are grinding gold pens, and the almost invisible dust which flies about from the grinding machines covers their faces and hair, and is deposited also on their clothes. The firm provided special wash basins in which the men are required to wash their hands, faces and hair every time they leave the workshop. Out of these wash basins are recovered annually from £1,000 to £1,200 in the shape of gold dust.

The ordinary sweepings of gold dust which has settled on the floors, ceilings and walls are worth £3,660 per annum, and finally it pays the employers to provide every employe with a new suit of overalls every month, as the company burns the old ones and recovers 20 shillings' worth of gold from each.

In the other phases of manufacture where gold is used, such as the application of gold to china, the rags and cloths which are used are burned, and one firm the writer knows in a small way saves £290 a year by the recovery of this gold dust.

30,000 VOICES!

And Many Are the Voices of Newport People.

Thirty thousand voices—What a grand chorus! And that's the number of American men and women who are publicly praising Doan's Kidney Pills for relief from backache, kidney and bladder ills. They say it to friends. They tell it in the home papers. Newport people are in this chorus. Here's a Newport case.

James Anderson, 3 Green Place, Newport, R. I., says: "A year ago I had severe pains and backache, caused by weak kidneys. Heavy lifting or a strain of any kind made the trouble worse. I heard of the benefit other people had had from Doan's Kidney Pills and I began taking them. I used four boxes and the attacks gradually left me. In a short time I was cured. I give Doan's Kidney Pills all the credit for making me well, as I took nothing else at the same time. I now keep Doan's Kidney Pills on hand and I consider them a good family remedy."

An advantage which this Association has over the usual kind of savings bank is the feature which calls for regular, systematic deposits by its members. One could, of course, do this in a savings bank, but he probably would not. On many deposit days he would use the money for something else, with the result that at the end of the year he would have so little to his credit that he would probably give up the plan altogether. In this respect, as in others, the Association is a friend to all its members.

HAIR FELL OUT WITH RINGWORM

Burned and Itched So Scratched Until Blood Came. Cried Herself to Sleep. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured in Three Weeks.

161 Harrison St., Pawtucket, R. I.—"When I first noticed the ringworm on my little girl it was just a tiny little spot below the eye. It moved so that it got around the temple, finally it moved into her hair and the hair fell out on the spot where the ringworm was. By this time it was larger than half a dollar. It burned and itched so she would scratch until the blood came and she would cry herself to sleep. In the morning the pillow would be covered with blood and humor where she would have scratched it in her sleep. During the day she was miserable.

"I used ——— and ——— as well but they did her no good for the ringworm was getting bigger and bigger. I had given up hopes. At the end of five months I read about the Cuticura Soap and Ointment so I sent for them right away. I then bought some more and used them according to directions and in less than three weeks she was quite cured. In four weeks the hair was growing thickly over it so that you would never know she had a sore." (Signed) Mrs. Corbett, Nov. 30, 1912.

A single cake of Cuticura Soap (25c.) and box of Cuticura Ointment (50c.) are often sufficient when all else has failed. Sold throughout the world. Sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

Men who shave and shampoo with Cuticura Soap will find it best for skin and scalp.

Getting the Strategic Position

IN commerce, as in warfare, it is usually the man holding the best strategic position that wins. The only times when he doesn't are when he fails to note the superior advantages of his location. The parcel post, once dreaded by the small merchant as giving an added advantage to his big competitor, the mail order house, has really placed him in a superior strategic position. He is now the center of a district extending fifty miles in every direction wherein he can ship goods at a much lower postal rate and much more expeditiously than any one outside that zone.

A leaf from the book of his ancient competitors, the mail order concerns, might aid him in reaping the fruits of his advantage. People will not send half a thousand miles or more and wait a fortnight for something that they can get as readily from the man nearer home, delivered almost overnight.

NEW POLICE STATION ASSURED.

posed of rapidly and yet without any semblance of haste. First came the communication from the Board of Aldermen on the business of the meeting. This read as follows:

The Board of Aldermen would respectfully recommend for your consideration and favorable action the passage of the resolution making certain transfers under the appropriation for highways and bridges for the purpose of paying for damages caused by the steam roller to the house on the corner of Broadway and Caleb Earl street; of the resolution transferring certain appropriations under the appropriation for fire department; of the resolution directing the Board of Aldermen to purchase land on the north side of Market square and to erect thereon a new police station, and the resolution authorizing the issuance of bonds for said purpose; and of the resolution authorizing the purchase of 750 square feet of the Greene estate on Broadway at $2 per square foot, or the condemnation of 2,100 square feet of said estate for park purposes, which your Honorable Body may deem most advantageous to the city.

Next came the report on the new police station, which read as follows:

Your committee appointed to look into the matter of a new police station beg leave to report as follows:

We endeavored to secure from the owners upon the south side of Market square the lowest figures at which they would dispose of their property and the result is as follows: William Quigley, $6,000; Sarah Clark heirs, $4,000; C. Ritt, $15,000; George Bowen heirs $6,000.

The Bowen heirs in addition stated that in the event of the adoption of the south side of Market square they would probably deed to the city a right of way to the rear of the premises along the present passageway to Bowen's wharf. These reductions would make the price to the city for the proposed 5,629 square feet of land on the south side of Market square amount to $31,000, instead of $35,000, as was first offered.

The properties on the north side of Market square at present available for a new police station site are those owned by Joseph G. Stevens and W. P. Sheffield. They are offered to the city for the following prices: William P. Sheffield, $11,000; Joseph G. Stevens, $4,000. This would make the price to the city for the proposed 6259 square feet of land on the north side of Market square amount to $15,000.

Your committee endeavored to procure prices for the small strip of land in the rear of the Stevens property, so as to make the eastern boundary of the proposed site a straight line, but the conditions required by the owners were found to be insurmountable except at such a large price that the small benefit that would be derived by having a perfectly square lot would not be worth the expense necessary to obtain it.

Your committee after several conferences and serious consideration are strongly of the opinion that it would be for the benefit of the city to purchase the two estates upon the north side of Market square. The low cost for this site is $35,000, which is at the rate of $2.85 per square foot, is obviously to the city's advantage. The price per square foot of the other property, at $31,000, would be $5.50, while there is only about 370 square feet more of land on the south side than there is in the Sheffield and Stevens estates.

The location on the north side is much more sanitary and healthful, inasmuch as three sides of the property can never be obstructed by buildings and with the sacrifice of a few feet along the eastern side of the boundary there can be provided abundant air space upon all sides. The outlook is most attractive, looking over the Government Landing to the harbor and is free from the noise and coal dust that might be encountered upon the south side of the square.

Permanent access by the ambulance to both the front and rear of any building upon the north side is assured and the land seems to be higher and drier than that upon the south side. If a building of three stories were erected upon the south side of the wharf there could be at least six times more floor space in the new building than there is in the present station. It would seem to be a modern arrangement to have the quarters for male offenders and the main office on the first floor, the quarters for female and juvenile offenders and for the officers on the second floor, and the sleeping quarters for the men on the third floor. With such an arrangement the location on the north side is amply large enough, is more comfortably situated and is so much less expensive than the site on the south side of the square that it would seem to be the best available location for such a building.

The committee find that it is inadvisable to ask for plans for a station before the site is definitely located, and therefore make no report at this time upon that detail. The site recommended is shown on the accompanying plat as the shaded area, and its dimensions are as follows: On Market square 84½ feet, on the Government Landing 63 2-10 feet, on the passageway leading from Thames street to the Government Landing along the side of Titus store 52 feet, and on the side along the Barker and Schattmann estates about 65 feet, with a considerable jog in the northeast corner where the Barker estate comes in.

The chairman next took up the resolution to buy the land recommended. Mr. Congdon suggested that it would be better to appropriate the funds first, and so the resolution for bonds was next taken up. This is as follows:

Resolved, That serial bonds of the city of Newport to the amount of $70,000 be issued and sold, under the direction of the Board of Aldermen, to provide the money to purchase land and erect a police station thereon. The bonds will be dated November 15, 1913, and shall be of the denomination of $1,000 each, bear semi-annual interest coupons at the rate of 4½ per cent per annum, shall be numbered from one to 70 inclusive and shall be payable in from one to 14 years, according to their numbers, that is to say, bonds numbered 1, 2, 3, 4 and 5 shall be payable in one year, bonds numbered 6, 7, 8, 9 and 10 in two years, and so on. Bonds shall be signed by the city treasurer, sealed with the corporate seal of the city of Newport and countersigned by the city clerk, and both principal and interest shall be payable at the office of the city treasurer in gold coin of the United States of the present standard of weight and fineness, and the sum of $5,000 shall be annually appropriated from the city finances to pay for the bonds maturing each year during the term of said bonds. The proceeds of the sale of said bonds shall be placed in the city treasury, to be used as above recited.

Mr. Congdon asked if the question was to go to the taxpayers, and the city clerk said the legislature had given the Council permission to issue bonds. He then asked about plans, and Mayor MacLeod said that, as the report had stated, the board thought the matter of site should be settled first, as that would determine the plans for the building. Still, informally the members had made inquiries and learned that a substantial building would be built for about $35,000. This it was believed gave a good leeway for building the house and properly furnishing it.

The date was made November 15 and the resolution was passed.

The resolution authorizing the board to do the work next came up. It read as follows:

Resolved, That the Board of Aldermen be and they are hereby authorized and directed to purchase the land on the north side of Market square, as described in the report of the Board of Aldermen to the Representative Council, received October 28, 1913, at a cost not to exceed $15,000, and to have prepared plans and specifications and to erect and equip on said land so purchased a new police station at a cost not to exceed $55,000.

Mr. Congdon moved to amend by having the board report the plans to the Council before proceeding to build. This was seconded by Mr. Dyer. No one opposed it. At this moment, when the police station seemed almost started, Mr. Aylsworth rose and said he had an amendment to offer. He desired a line drawn from the iron fence to Mr. T. A. Lawton's corner. Perhaps he said something more, but every one was laughing by this time and even the chairman did not have an absolutely straight face as he rapped for order and informed Mr. Aylsworth that the police station and not the Broadway widening was under discussion. The resolution, as amended, was then unanimously adopted and the Council had finally taken the necessary steps to start work on a new police station.

Mr. Aylsworth had noted that the resolution for bonds had been passed and the Broadway widening was next in order, but had failed to remember that the resolution to begin the police station had been temporarily passed. That is how he came to be ahead of things, but he laughed with the others, and sat down. Later, when his question came up, he was not heard from.

The petition of Rev. N. J. Sproul and 66 others, for widening the roadway on Broadway at the Congdon estate; the report of the Board of Aldermen on this matter and the two resolutions sent by the aldermen to the Council, one for buying 750 feet and the other for condemning 2,100 feet of the Greene land, came up next. The communications were received, and on motion o F. W. Lawton and with a single dissenting "No" in each case the two resolutions were laid on the table without discussion.

Next came the fire department transfers, which had been recommended by the Board of Aldermen and the committee on appropriations. The resolution read as follows:

$25 from item "fire alarm construction" to item "laundry work."

$300 from item "general repairs apparatus" to item "station supplies."

$100 from item "apparatus supplies" and $200 from item "emergency fund" to item "station repairs."

$100 from item "general repairs, apparatus" and $100 from item "forage" to item "repairs apparatus"

$175 from item "emergency fund" to item "station repairs," for concrete washstand and alterations at Combination 1.

$150 from item "general repairs apparatus" to item "station repairs," for concrete washstand and alterations, Combination 2.

$25 from item "harness repairs" to item "lighting stations."

$650 from item "horses," $125 from item "general repairs apparatus" and $125 from item "forage," total $900, to an appropriation for the purchase of an automobile runabout for the use of the chief engineer of the fire department.

Mr. Butterton asked unanimous consent to introduce a petition at this point in the proceedings, and every one being good-natured no opposition was made. He presented a petition signed by E. J. Berwind and other owners of property in the vicinity, asking for a fire alarm box on Perry street, near Bellevue avenue. Mr. Butterton explained that there is considerable property in this section, and, as the owners had learned in a recent fire, the nearest fire alarm box seemed to be on Freebody street. He then offered a resolution amending the transfer resolution by making three more transfers aggregating $150, and authorizing the location of a new fire alarm box as asked for by the petitioners.

Dr. Beck favored the runabout for the chief engineer, saying there are two pieces of automobile apparatus now ordered and the chief should be able to move about rapidly. A question was raised about $650 appropriated for horses, which it was thought had gone into the appropriation for the new Chemical. The city clerk finally read from the records to show that this had not been done. Mr. Garrettson asked what kind of a runabout the chief desired, and the chairman said the resolution did not state. Mr. Garretson quoted different prices for automobiles, but did not come down to the $900 mark fixed in the resolution.

Mr. Butterton's amendment providing the new fire alarm box was adopted and the resolution as amended was then adopted.

It was voted that the city treasurer be authorized to make the following transfers of appropriations for the department of highways and bridges: From the appropriation for Bush street 300, from the appropriation for Freebody street $200, a total of $500, which amount the resolution asked to be transferred to the appropriation of repairs, etc., to the house at the corner of Broadway and Caleb Earl street, for damages caused by the city steam roller.

Next came the resolution to pay $442.60 to James Connell, the lad who was injured by the hook and ladder truck February 15 and whose claim was recommended by the Board of Aldermen May 27. Dr. Beck said he had looked into this case and found that the boy was not only on the sidewalk but up against the building when hit by the truck, which was temporarily out of control, and the damages were for payments due to his injuries. He thought the lad should be re-imbursed and offered a substitute resolution, directing the city solicitor to prepare a resolution and urge its passage by the legislature, authorizing the Council to pay the sum stated to the Connell lad. The substitute resolution was adopted.

Then came some fireworks. Dr. Beck introduced the following resolution: Resolved, That a committee of five be appointed to investigate the general conditions of the fire department of this city, with the object of reporting back to the Council a plan for the re-organization of the department.

In supporting this resolution Dr. Beck said he believed the members of the department and the many who had been members would see that the best interests of the department and of the city would be served by re-organization along proper lines. The city has twice as many fire stations as one of this size should have. He suggested that three houses close together—the hook and ladder on Long wharf, Chemical 1 on West Marlborough street, and Steamer 2 on Bridge street— could be concentrated at West Marlborough, with the best of results and a big saving in the running cost of the department. Then he said that the fire station on Prospect Hill street had not rendered $10 worth of work to the city in the past five years, yet it costs to keep it going. In the past 16 years, he said, the department has made no progress and he believed that with a proper re-organization more efficiency could be obtained, at a saving of $30,000 in the running expenses.

He said that apparently the Combination Ladder Company of Providence has the whole run of things and decides what the department needs, and the Council is then asked to buy from the Combination Ladder Company. He instanced the case of the steamer recommended at the beginning of the year. He said Mr. Kelley, of the Combination Ladder Company, had bought up spare parts and junk of the old Amoskeag Company and the company had built from it one steamer, which went to Beverly, and from the remains had constructed another, which he proposed to sell to Newport. Dr. Beck said if any Newport firemen could see that engine they would feel glad that it had not been bought for this city. He spoke of the hose sold to the city by the Combination Ladder Company and said nowhere else in New England could he find that this hose is used. He also said that if put in water this hose would hold more water and dry slower than untreated hose. He had a letter from the Eureka Hose Makers, makers of perhaps 60 per cent of the fire hose used, stating that it would be a waste of time to offer to sell hose to the Newport fire department.

He spoke of the large proportion of officers in the department, of the lack of any age limit, of incidents he had noted at fires, when a reel arrived with one man and the driver and the owner of the house on fire had to hold the nozzle while the one man turned on the water; of another case where the fireman of a steamer came running up some time after the steamer had arrived and neither the fireman nor the driver had a match to start the fire.

By this time Dr. Beck had the Council well warmed up and feeling good-natured over the amusing incidents, which appealed to many as illustrations of what they had noted at fires. Yet, he continued, this department had $78,000 voted for its maintenance the past spring.

He quoted facts about other places. Taunton with 38,000 population and many manufactories has 5 fire houses and 15 pieces of apparatus; Newport has 10 houses and 17 pieces. Pawtucket, with 54,000, has 6 houses and 10 pieces of apparatus, all modern; Fall River, with 120,000, has 11 houses and 22 pieces of apparatus.

If the city is going into automobile apparatus, and he hoped it is, the cost of the department would mount to $100,000 unless something is done. He believed an efficient department could be maintained for $40,000. He told what a concentration of apparatus in one house would do in giving men for the apparatus, and quoted facts about the men going to meals and the absence of a sufficient force from the houses at meal times. He spoke of the numerous officers and their salaries, and suggested that the Board of Firewards could be reduced to two, one for up town and one for down town. He quoted one box, to which the men who would be expected to respond number 45, and of these 13 are officers.

The speaker said there are three qualities of the kind of hose bought by the city, and which grade Newport has no one knows. There is no test of the hose. In other cities hose must stand a test of 200 pounds before it is accepted. Perhaps Newport could not give that test, because no steamer could produce that pressure. He had been unable to find what had become of the old hose, except what went to the highway department.

Street Commissioner Sullivan said the highway department receives about all the old hose of the fire department. Some one asked if it pays anything for it, but Mr. Sullivan did not reply.

Dr. Beck said the Council had been told the old Chemical was unsafe for the men to ride in and a new one was necessary. A new one has been purchased, the tanks have been taken off the old one, it has a new coat of paint and has gone to the Sevens' house, where it is to be used as a hose wagon and men will ride in it. He urged the passage of the resolution.

Fletcher W. Lawton moved to lay the resolution on the table. The viva voce vote was very even and a rising vote was asked for. The resolution was laid on the table—Ayes 73, nays 66, total 139, out of 158 members checked as present, 21 not voting.

The following communication was received from the Public School Committee:

At the regular meeting of the Public School Committee held Monday, October 13, 1913, it was unanimously voted to make the following requests of the Representative Council.

First—To request the Representative Council to place on the ballot for the city election Tuesday, December 2, 1913, a proposition asking the voters for $35,000 to make a four-room addition to the Coggeshall school.

Second—To request the Representative Council to place on the ballot for the city election Tuesday, December 2, 1913, a proposition asking the voters for $90,000 to purchase a site on Mary street and to erect a building to replace the Clarke school.

Two resolutions accompanied the communication, covering the two propositions. The first was:

Resolved, That the following proposition be submitted to the electors of this city, qualified to vote upon any proposition to impose a tax or for the expenditure of money, at the ward meetings to be held December 2, 1913:

Shall the Board of Aldermen, under the direction of the Representative Council, be authorized to build a four-room addition to the Coggeshall school, at a sum not exceeding $35,000, to be derived from the sale of bonds of this city, to be issued under the direction of the Representative Council, in such amounts, at such rate of interest, payable at such times and upon such terms as the said Representative Council shall prescribe.

The second proposition was:

Shall the Board of Aldermen under the direction of the Representative Council, be authorized to purchase a site on Mary street and to erect thereon a school building to replace the Clarke school, at a sum not exceeding $90,000, to be derived from the sale of bonds of this city, to be issued under the direction of the Representative Council, of such amounts, at such rate of interest, payable at such times and upon such terms as the Representative Council shall prescribe.

The two propositions were passed, to go on the ballot, though one Philistine had suggested laying the $90,000 proposition on the table.

Next came the communication received by the Board of Aldermen from the C. A. Hammett Company and transmitted to the Council. This stated that, in view of the proposition to build a new school in the vicinity of the Clarke building, the following offer was presented for presentation to the Council:

"I am authorized to offer to the city of Newport the Hazard Memorial School building, as well as the land in front thereof, for the sum of $100,000. This is a modern school building, centrally and conveniently located, and well adapted to the school needs of the city."

This was followed by another communication, enclosing a letter from Father Higney of St. Joseph's parish, who stated that the land offered had a frontage of 57.3 feet on Touro street and contained 21,000 square feet. He enclosed a blue print, showing the school and the land offered.

To this J. B. Sullivan added a resolution to have this question also placed on the ballots at the December election, so that the taxpayers could express their opinion on the desirability of buying the property. In support of the proposition he stated that St. Joseph's Church proposes to erect a 12-room modern school building closer to the new church than the present one; that is the reason for making this offer. This seemed a matter for the people to decide, and the only way was by having it placed on the ballot.

In answer to a question by Mr. Garrettson he stated that the Touro Street width is 57.3 feet and takes in the present old convent and all the land up to a narrow strip, about four feet wide, next the parsonage.

Mr. Congdon asked if the School Committee did not have the right to select the site, and moved that the matter be referred to the School Committee. Mr. Sullivan suggested that there is not time for the School Committee to consider this offer and have it go on the ballot. Captain Cotton asked if the School Committee did not have the right to select school sites and the city solicitor said the School Committee under the General Laws has that right.

Mr. Lee said no one desires a school on Mary street. The proper place is at the Thayer, where the land is high and the drainage good. There are now complaints about the Clarke school, because it is so low and people think the conditions are not good.

J. J. M. Martin said he had not heard the decision of the city solicitor, and that officer repeated his statement that the School Committee is the body which has the right to select sites for schools. Mr. Martin asked if it would not be illegal for the Council to submit this question to the taxpayers, and the city solicitor said he saw no legal objection to letting the taxpayers vote on the proposition.

The Chair put the question of referring the matter of the Hazard School offer to the School Committee and the vote seemed very close. Mr. Sullivan said he believed the matter of sufficient importance to call for an aye and nay vote, and this was done. The Chairman stated the question several times, so that every one would know just how to vote. The vote was taken and the result was announced as Ayes 71, Nays 83, and the motion was lost. The resolution to place the proposition on the ballot at the city election was then passed without further discussion.

The vote, as checked by the News reporter, was as follows:

Ayes—G. B. Austin, J. R. Austin, Aylesworth, D. P. Bacheller, G. W. Bacheller Jr., H. C. Bacheller, J. B. Bacheller, Bailey, Bain F. S. Barker, J. A. Barker, Beck, Biesel, E. T. Bosworth, E. T. To Every Purchaser of 10c Worth of TUXEDO Tobacco

BACK in the tiny Provinces of Germany and Austria, there is many a thrifty miller who, when his supply of grain has all been ground, turns to making these quaint cherry wood pipes, rather than let the water flow idle over the dam. Out of his loft he brings his supply of seasoned Cherry and Weichsel branches—cherry for bowls, aromatic weichsel for stems, the both left on to imprison the delicate fragrance of the wood.

Very little time can he give to pipe making; very limited, too, his supply of the sweet smelling German woods. Naturally, then, many Americans have never had the chance to smoke the real German article. NEW POLICE STATION ASSURED.

to present for your consideration a report of the inspectors of plumbing and nuisances made to the board regarding the sanitary conditions at Easton's beach, together with a resolution requesting an appropriation for the employment of a sanitary expert to report on sewerage conditions at Easton's beach and recommend a disposal plant to care for all the sewerage.

The resolution asked for an appropriation of $250 and the report of the inspectors, made by Inspector of Plumbing Carney, was as follows:

On October 10, in company with Mr. Shaw, inspector of nuisances, we made inspections of the cesspools at the Newport beach. We recommended that the cesspool serving the convention hall and kitchen be changed to a septic tank with a tight cover, made in sections so it can be readily removed, for cleaning purposes. This cesspool had on August 8 additional drainage laid to the east end of bathing section and served the purposes for which it was installed for the remainder of the season.

The present arrangements at the beach for sewerage disposal can be very much improved by the installation of a sewerage disposal plant, that will take care of all the sewerage on the beach. We recommend that a sanitary expert on sewerage disposal be consulted in regard to this matter.

Mr. Openshaw asked why it was suggested to hire an outside expert when the city has a civil engineer and an inspector of plumbing in its employ. J. W. Sullivan moved to lay the $250 resolution on the table and it was so voted, one nay being heard.

From the Board of Health came a proposed amendment to section 3 of chapter 25 of the City Ordinances, entitled "Of the Board of Health." It proposed adding the words "and some suitable person to be the sanitary inspector of said board," following the words "to be the clerk of said board." It further proposed the substitution of $600 to $1,500 following the words "and said clerk shall receive compensation at the rate of," and the addition of the words "and said sanitary inspector shall receive compensation at the rate of $900 a year," after the words "$1500 a year."

There was no explanation of this and the ordinance was referred to the committee of Twenty-Five of next year.

The Board of Health asked the passage of a resolution transferring $200 from the appropriation for abating nuisances to antitoxin and vacine, $50 from health inspectors, fumigations, to antitoxin and vaccines; $20 from refuse and garbage disposal, repairs, to laboratory expenses; $20 from refuse and garbage disposal, repairs, to refuse and garbage disposal, collection of dead animals; $20 from refuse and garbage disposal, repairs, to public health supervision, telephones, and $900 from salary for clerk to salary for inspector.

The Council having referred the matter of inspector, the last item was taken off and the resolution for the other transfers was then passed.

The following resolution for the issuing of the notes to pay certain permanent expenses was passed without discussion:

Whereas, by resolution of the Council passed March 3, 1913, the city solicitor was directed to secure authority from the General Assembly for this city to issue its notes for $55,000 for certain permanent improvements, new fire apparatus and the payment of an old note, and

Whereas, permission has been duly granted by the General Assembly for the issuance of said notes, be it

Resolved, That the Board of Aldermen be and they are hereby ordered and directed to issue notes of this city to the amount of $55,000, in separate notes of $5,000 each, payable one in 1914, one in 1915, and so on until said sum of $55,000 has been paid, and

Resolved, That the sum of $5,000 be annually appropriated from the city's finances to pay for the note maturing each year.

The park commission offered a resolution asking for the transfer of $50 from the item of "office expenses," $100 from the item "Aquidneck Park," $50 from the item "repairs to bathing beaches" and $50 from the item "fountain repairs," a total of $250, to the item "labor, materials and repairs." The Council voted the transfers.

Next came the resolution fixing the salaries of mayor and members of the Board of Aldermen for the coming year. Captain Cotton moved to make the salaries the same as this year, $1,800 for the mayor and $500 each for the aldermen. M. A. Sullivan moved to make the salary of the aldermen $700 and the amendment was lost. He then moved to make it $600, and again the Council voted no. Finally the vote was for $500, the same as last year. The resolution had been passed down without a vote being taken on the mayor's salary, and it was recalled. The Council voted to make the mayor's salary $1,800 and the resolution was passed.

Without discussion or debate resolutions making the following extra appropriations found necessary were passed: $1,525.91 for state tax; $1,000 for elections, $200 for City Hall, $200 for prisons and reformatories, $29.35 for interest, $60 for ambulance.

A petition was received from Rev. E. H. Porter and 12 others, for a granolithic sidewalk on the south side of South Baptist street, 201 feet west from the corner of Spring street. In front of the Emmanuel Church property. Accompanying this was a resolution appropriating $325 for laying the same.

Mr. Murphy moved to amend the resolution by providing a sidewalk from Spring to Thames street at a cost of $650. He said many of the Emmanuel Church people go up from Thames street and the walk might as well go the whole way. The street commissioner said he did not know if $650 would do the work. Mr. Murphy said the sidewalk is a narrow one and that would be sufficient. J. J. M. Martin said he was afraid the amendment might hurt the original resolution, which he would like to see passed. Mr. McMahon said the people of the church felt that they are entitled to have a sidewalk laid, as other churches have. The amendment prevailed and the Council voted to have the sidewalk go the whole length of the south side of the street, and gave $650 for that purpose. One negative vote was heard.

The petition of Mrs. J. C. Mallery and eight others for a granolithic sidewalk on the east side of Kay street, from Brinley to Ayrault streets, and the petition of C. S. Peabody and four others, for another gas light on Nicol place, were sent to the Committee of Twenty-Five.

The last paper on the chairman's desk had been acted upon, no one made a move to introduce any new business, and without ado the Council at 9:47 adjourned. Every one seemed pleased at finishing so early.

GERMANY'S WEALTH.

Richest of European Nations in Earning Capacity of the People.

Germany is now the richest country in Europe, with an aggregate wealth of about $74,000,000,000, and an annual income for its people of about $9,524,000,000. Such are the conclusions of Dr. Karl Helfferich, one of the most eminent financial authorities of Germany. He finds that the national wealth of Germany is greater than that of Great Britain or France, as estimated by the economists of those countries, although the latter have a greater wealth per head, owing to their small populations.

He estimates the wealth of the average German at between $1,074 and $1,190, compared with an English estimate of $1,214 for England, and a French estimate for France of $1,105, and with the estimate of the census bureau for the United States of $1,310.

In earning or income capacity, however, the average German lies between the Englishman and the Frenchman, the German income being estimated at $127, the French (by the French authority) at $122, while the Briton is far in the lead with an income of $194.

One of the most striking features of Dr. Helfferich's calculations, however, is the tremendous growth in the earning capacity of the German people, which may soon bring the nation to the same position of financial predominance in Europe as it now possesses in military power.

He estimates the annual income of the German nation about 1895 at between $5,250,000,000 to $6,000,000,000; at present, 18 years later, it has grown, he estimates, to $9,524,000,000, and he claims that if the annual savings of the people and the latent growth of land and other values be combined a total addition to the national wealth of about $2,380,000,000 is registered every year.

10:45 (First transactions in stocks today showed a preponderance of small losses, although a few stocks, including Reading and Southern Pacific, made slight gains. Then the market rallied, led by Reading, which rose a point. Trading was of the same character as yesterday's market and large speculative elements held back. Wheeling and Lake Erie stocks, which seldom figure conspicuously, were unusually active on the upturn, the various issues making gains of 1 to 2½.

Noon.—Prices moved up during the morning, despite unfavorable developments in the international monetary situation. The rise in private discounts at London to 5½ per cent, following yesterday's engagement of gold there for New York, revived talk of a possible advance in the Bank of England's rate. Lower prices abroad, together with offerings here for foreign account, influenced buying of the market at the outset. Sentiment was also affected unfavorably by reports of a movement among employes of Western roads for wage increases, and further reduction in price of Steel products. The effect of these factors, however, was short lived and the upturn, which set in early in the day, proceeded steadily until leading stocks reached a level 1 to 1½ above yesterday's close. The shorts were nonplussed by the strength of prices and bought rather freely. Bonds were firm. Money on call, firm, at 4 per cent. Prime mercantile paper, 5½ and 5¾ per cent. FOR THE MARINE CORPS.

Increase of Authorized Strength for Base Work Recommended.

It is believed that the Navy Department will recommend increasing the authorized strength of the marine corps. The necessity for this is found in the valuable work connecting with the establishment of advanced bases. There has been some trouble because the regular duties of officers of the marine corps permit only short periods of instruction in this work. The strength of the corps is barely sufficient for the ordinary duties now devolving upon it.

The instruction and work connected with the establishment and operation of advanced bases are an addition to the work hitherto performed by the corps. It is therefore believed that Congress could be prevailed upon to authorize an increase. The repeated calls upon the marine corps as expeditionary forces make it necessary that thorough instruction be given in the work incident to such movements.

An advanced base school was established at New London, Conn., which was moved in July, 1911, to Philadelphia. There has been criticism of the lack of the development of the project at Philadelphia and a board of naval officers has proposed methods for its improvement. This board reports that the progress of this school has been academic rather than practical. It is shown that there is no successful place to assemble appliances and stores required in an emergency. What material has been assembled is incomplete and incommensurate with either the importance of the project or the needs of the fleet. Attention is likewise called to the fact that for purposes of instruction, as well as for housing the officers and men, no sufficient preparation has been made.

The board reached the conclusion that the naval establishment is unprepared for advanced base work in the emergency of war. The following recommendations have been made to the Secretary of the Navy: (1) Adequate and appropriate space assigned at the Philadelphia yard for the suitable storage and care of advanced base material; (2) the instruction of a fixed defense regiment in the duties pertaining to the transportation, assembling and operation of the outfit; (3) the construction of barracks necessary for the increased force of marines at the yard; (4) the formation of the advanced base regiment and the maintenance of the fixed defense regiment by the school for instruction and readiness; (5) the creation of new ranks in the marine corps similar to those authorized by law for the army and navy, covering highly specialized activities; (6) provision for transports for immediate transportation of the advanced base outfit; (7) increase in the strength of officers and men of the corps.

THE SYNERGOI HALLOWE'EN PARTY.

The Synergoi of the United Congregational Church gave a Hallowe'en party in the parish house Tuesday evening for friends, including members of the Guild. The rooms were appropriately decorated with pumpkin lanterns and stalks of corn, the electric lights being shaded in orange. Games were played early in the evening and then there was dancing until 11 o'clock. Hodgson's orchestra furnishing a program of the latest popular music. Refreshments were served and Miss Annie Carr told fortunes on the cards.

The committee in charge consisted of Misses Martha Speers, Ruth Barker, Marian Melleon and Gwendolyn Perrin. Mrs. A. Russell Manchester and Miss Mary L. Ives were the chaperones.

WOMEN'S RELIEF CORPS BUSINESS.

The members of Lawton-Warren Relief Corps, at their meeting Tuesday evening, heard from Mrs. Harriet Ford department secretary, an interesting description of her recent trip to Charlestown, Mass., as a delegate to the national convention. Remarks were also made by Mrs. Lawton and Mrs. Dunbar.

It was voted to hold a bazaar November 18 for the benefit of the corps. The following were appointed to have charge of the several tables: Mrs. Shoddy, fancy work; Miss Hamilton, dolls; Mrs. Dunbar, aprons; Mrs. Lawton, cake; Mrs. Lake, candy and popcorn; Mrs. Sisson, grab bag; Mrs. Sarah Peabody, lemonade.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

The annual meeting of the Channing Guild was held Tuesday evening in the Channing parlors, the reading of reports and election of officers being followed by a social session. The officers elected were as follows:

President, James C. Powell.

Vice President, Valentine Hunting-ton.

Secretary, Mabel Parmenter.

Treasurer, William B. Stevens.

Chairman of Flower Committee—Ida Hall Acton.

Chairman of Entertainment Committee, Carol Parmenter.

FOOD VALUE OF MILK.

Requirements for Percentage of Solids Vary in Different States.

Mr. Greenlaw's Instructive Address Before the Men's League of Emmanuel Church.

The members of the Men's League of Emmanuel Church had the pleasure of hearing Mr. Frank M. Greenlaw lecture in his interesting manner on "Milk" at the parish house Tuesday evening. The address covered the topic fully and demonstrated the need of laws compelling the sale of pure milk. Many interesting facts regarding the milk situation in Rhode Island compared with that in other states were brought out, and the speaker said he had the matter a great deal at heart. After his lecture Mr. Greenlaw was applauded heartily, and given a vote of thanks.

Mr. Greenlaw said milk is the only food of animal origin that is eaten raw, and this fact alone separates it from other foods by way of a scientific comparison. Milk contains a little of everything and mostly water, this last without any slur upon the honest milkman. A quart of milk weighs two pounds, and 27.8 ounces of each quart is water. The other constituents of milk are sugar, scientifically known as lactose, fat and casein, besides mineral and foreign substances in small amounts. It is estimated that 300 pounds of foreign substances are eaten daily by the residents of the city of Berlin, while the inhabitants of New York city consume 10 tons of this dangerous ingredient each day.

Milk is an indispensable food which has great value. The fat and casein in small particles render it easy of digestion, while one pint of milk contains 314 calories of heat, and since a man needs at least 2,300 calories of heat daily to live, seven pints of milk will furnish all the nourishment needed, making milk one of the cheapest foods that one could adequately live on.

There is as much nourishment in a quart of milk as there is in a dozen eggs, while skimmed milk has about half as much food value as whole milk. A striking difference between cows milk and human milk is that the former has twice as much casein in it, and therefore has to be modified when given to children.

Examinations of milk can be taken from the temperature and specific gravity of the sample. The butter in milk is 4.5 per cent of the whole amount. Of the breeds of cows the Jersey is the best in the production of milk, giving 15 per cent in total solids. The Guernsey ranks next with 14.69 per cent, while the Durham is third and the Holstein last. The cows that give a lower amount of solids are the ones that give the greatest quantity of milk, and for this reason are more profitable to the farmer who sells his milk.

The requirements for percentages of solids in milk vary greatly in the different states. Idaho having the lowest with an 11 per cent. demand, while Louisiana and New Hampshire have the highest with a 13 per cent law. Rhode Island's law requires that milk contain but 2.5 per cent fat. This law should be remedied as it favors none but the unscrupulous farmer.

The danger in poorly handled milk is that it becomes a natural medium for bacteria, which in many cases are harmful. Milk can contain four kinds of bacteria, indifferent, acid-forming, putrefactive and disease forming. From these last two, cases of scarlet fever, diphtheria, typhoid fever, and even tuberculosis may be caught. Proper sterilizing of milking utensils by live steam would remedy this, while rigid and adequate examinations should be regularly made to test prevailing conditions. Mr. Greenlaw also spoke of the advantage of the press in publishing accounts of these examinations so that the public could tell at a glance who were the competent milkmen.

After the lecture Mr. Greenlaw asked for informal questions and a few were asked. Refreshments were served.

LECTURES ARRANGED FOR.

Cup Presented to John Fletcher at Meeting of Horticultural Society.

At the Newport Horticultural Society's meeting Tuesday evening several matters of special interest were considered. The committee on lectures reported that it had arranged a portion of the course for the winter. The first will be given by Mr. J. Otto Thillow connected with the Dreers Company, the well known Philadelphia seedmen, who will speak on "The Canadian Rockies and their Flora." There will be a talk especially for children, on seeds, and it is hoped to have a descriptive lecture on the gardens of Newport, either by Mr. Harfern Powell or Rev. Roderick Terry, D. D.

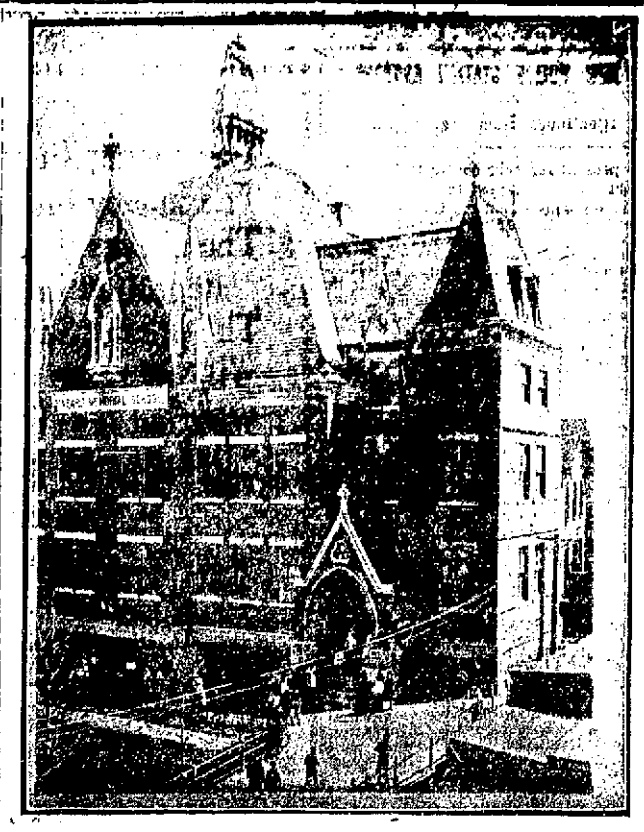

Announcement was made of a gift of $150 to the society by Senator R. Livingston Beekman, and of the annual donations of Mrs. Hugh D. Auchincloss for prizes for the society's exhibits.

The Stumpp and Walker cup, given for the best display of vegetables at the recent exhibit at the beach, was presented to Mr. John Fletcher, gardener for Captain Roger Welles at the Naval Training Station. The presentation was made by Mr. Andrew S. Meikle, president of the society, and the cup was accepted by Mr. Fletcher in a brief speech.

BIG NEW YORK REAL ESTATE DEAL.

Mr. Arthur Curtiss James has purchased the $2,600,000 apartment house on the north corner of Fifth avenue and Eighty-first street, New York, a building of 12 stories which was completed about two years ago. It stands on a plot with a frontage of 102.2 feet on Fifth avenue and 125 feet on the street, containing 18 apartments, those facing Fifth avenue being single suites and the remainder, duplex.

In part payment Mr. James conveyed to the sellers the four six-story apartment houses, on a plot 102.2 by 250 feet, at the southwest corner of Amsterdam avenue and Eighty-sixth street, belonging to the estate of D. Willis James. The entire deal involved about $3,250,000.

ATHLETIC LEAGUE FORMED.

First Meet of Y. M. C. A. Grammar School Boys Takes Place Thursday.

Thursday morning the first event in the Pan Athletic League, which was organized among the grammar school boys of the Young Men's Christian Association Tuesday evening, will be held in form of an athletic meet. Physical Director Slocum called the captains of the six teams together and had them choose their colors. Records will be kept of each team, and the one securing the highest number of points by April 1 will be the acknowledged champion. The winners will be presented with a shield as the emblem of victory, and will also have their pictures taken.

Five events make up the meet Thursday morning, standing broad jump, 50-yard dash, 100-yard dash, a sharp shooting contest, and a relay race. The sharp shooting contest consists of throwing a ball at a target for accuracy. The number of points given will be few, the best any team can make is 10 points, and the score varies down to zero.

A somewhat similar league, known as the volley ball league will be started November 1, and as in the Pan Athletic League the winning team will also receive a shield. Besides volley ball the members of this league can add to their total number of points by means of relay races, which Physical Director Slocum has specially prepared. Attendance in gymnasium classes will figure in the final capitulation for points.

A gymnasium exhibition will be held November 25 and basketball and indoor base ball leagues will start soon after. Badge tests and swimming meets will be among the other events before April 1.

The members of the teams in the Pan Athletic League are:

Narragansetts, red—Raymond Edwards, captain; Lindsey Sutherland, John Wilson, William Langley, John Alger, Stewart North, Harold Tollerson.

Cheyennes, lavender—Thomas Smith, captain; Abraham Dannin, Edward Berry, William Libby, Cammillas Waldt, Thomas B. Tanner, Jr., William North.

Cherokees, brown—Arnold James, captain; George Havican, Junius Barker, Harold Dring, Lewis Swan, Paul Jeter, Francis Dwyer.

Iroquois, blue—Frank M. Wheeler, Jr., captain; Nicholas Dillon, Reginald Haas, Arthur Dunham, Oscar Schultz, John Benson, Louis Anderson.

Crows, orange—Calvin Holm, captain; Horton Edward, Ralph Wood, Jr., Harold Goddard, John Sullivan, Benton Decker, Harry Dannin.

Apaches, green—Archie Mitchell, captain; Charles Braley, Julian Barker, Frank Nolan, Gordan Bain, Harry Kochne, Raymond Dring.

TIE SHOOT-OFF CLOSE.

A. R. Anthony the Winner in Rifle Club's Series for Class A.

The tie in the Newport Rifle Club's series for class A was shot off Tuesday evening at the Aquidneck range and resulted in a win for A. R. Anthony. The first half, at the State Hill range, gave him a two-point lead and Tuesday he added two more, thus winning by 4 points, close shooting for such a long series. The score for the shoot-off follows:

A. R. Anthony	121	117	122	116	476
	118	119	122	116	471
					950
A. A. Albro	114	118	119	120	471
	120	114	120	118	472
					943

The totals for the full match and tie, the possible score being 6000, were: Anthony, 5715; Albro, 5711.

Owing to an error in scoring class C crosses, class C was won by J. J. Peckham at 447.1, instead of P. M. Conley at 456.3.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

The Camera Club of the Young Men's Christian Association met Tuesday evening under the supervision of Secretary W. G. Stockwell, who gave a demonstration of development of plates, and by way of illustration took a flashlight picture of the club and developed it in their presence.

After the gymnasium class the employed boys had an informal luncheon and officers were elected for the coming year.

Thursday morning there will be a grammar school meet in the gymnasium, while in the afternoon there will be a bowling meet, with the members of the Bible classes as teams.

Friday the members of the boys' department will go on an all-day hike, in the evening a fellowship supper will be held.

HYMN TUNES MELODIOUS.

Mr. Leonard Thomas's Compositions Full of Dignity and Novelty.

The little book of 20 hymn tunes written by Mr. Leonard Thomas, recently published, is creating much favorable comment among musicians who have seen them. The composer has been very successful in his harmonic progressions, which are free in treatment and contain no awkward passages, while the melody and movement is particularly appropriate to the various poems which have all been taken from the Episcopal Hymnal. Mr. Thomas is far from conventional in his musical compositions, even his hymns being entirely original in character, and a pleasing effect is produced by introducing in some of them a minor chord in a major hymn, one measure before the close of a cadence. There is a dignity, novelty and thoughtfulness about these hymns which ought to place them in the various collections for church purposes.

Some of these will be sung by the choir of Channing Memorial Church as anthems during the winter.

FOR NEW BATHHOUSES.

Contract for Eighteen Awarded to J. J. Kelly by the Aldermen.

The Board of Aldermen made an inspection of the beach recently, with the idea of the new bathhouses in mind, and Tuesday evening, before the meeting of the Council, the board met and voted to give the contract for 18 new bathhouses to J. J. Kelly at $17.25 each. This will leave a balance of $29.45 in the beach appropriation. Alderman Kirby was opposed to the bathhouses, because he wished to see some seats provided and to use the money for this purpose instead. The contract calls for the Beach Association to put in bathhouses but not to put in seats, so he thought the city should put in the seats now.

Alderman Albro was authorized to procure 10 yards of gravel for the paths in the City cemetery.

NEW OPERA HOUSE BILL

Two Big Features and a Comedy Acted by a Juvenile Company.

The new bill at the Opera House has two big features, "A Ruined Life" by the Players Film Company, and "Bleeding Hearts, or Jewish Freedom Under King Casimir of Poland." "A Ruined Life" is an exception to the general run of pictures, the theme and plot being out of the ordinary and the picture itself worthy of praise. Numerous happenings, constantly in evidence, keep the mind alert and watching to see what will come next. "Bleeding Hearts," an Imp release, is one of the best pictures, dealing with the Jews of former times, ever published. It shows the hardships and struggles of the Jews, reviewing vividly the laws against them.

"The Kid," a Powers comedy, is acted by a juvenile company almost entirely. "Rogen's Newport Weekly" has been retained at the request of those who have not had the opportunity of seeing it before. The "Animated Weekly" will also be shown.

As an added attraction at the special matinee Thursday "Robinson Crusoe" will be shown, a picture which will be a treat to the children.

NEW POLICE STATION ASSURED.

School Propositions and Offer of Hazard Memorial to Go Before Taxpayers.

Re-organization of Fire Department and Broadway Widening Defeated by Representative Council.

The Representative Council met Tuesday evening for the sixth time this year, did business expeditiously, and adjourned, all in an hour and 47 minutes.

The new police station was made a certainty on the north side of Market square. Messrs. Congdon and Dyer thought the Council should pass upon the plans before the building is started, and the rest of the Council did not oppose them; otherwise the suggestions made by the mayor and aldermen prevailed.

Dr. Beck made a hit by his expose of the fire department and its method of running. He seemed to have the crowd with him, but when it came to a vote enough stood by their old idols to prevent the passage of his resolution looking to the re-organization of the department.

The widening of Broadway, and the location of a new park, were defeated without delay, as had been expected. There had been enough publicity to this question to enable every one to form an opinion and all were ready to vote.

The school propositions were ordered placed on the ballot at the city election; also an alternative proposition to buy the Hazard Memorial School for $100,000. This brought out the only roll-call vote and it stood 72 to 33.

The chief engineer of the fire department obtained his automobile runabout. One "pirate" wished to cut that out of the appropriation, but the Council felt that a part of the fire department should get around, and as the chief has the disposition to do so he ought to have an automobile. The payment for damages caused by a runaway steam roller was authorized, and the legislature will be asked for permission to pay damages for a fire department accident.

The proposition to hire an expert on the beach sewerage question was voted down, and that for creating a new office in the health department went over to the Committee of Twenty-Five.

The salaries of the mayor and aldermen were fixed at the same figures as last year. It looked for a while as those of the aldermen would be cut, but they remained the same.

The sidewalk for the Emmanuel Church parish house was ordered, and it was ordered from Spring to Thames street instead of for the 201 feet asked for. All the extra appropriations and transfers asked for were voted.

The attendance was not so large as had been expected, but was fairly good. There were checked as present 158 members, which is not bad. Business began promptly on time. It would have been better had the chairman called upon the doorkeeper to notify the members outside to come in before the roll was called, but the roll-call vote gave the late comers an opportunity to have their names checked. There was a slight halt at the start to fill a vacancy in the Second ward and then business began to run along smoothly.

When the roll was called at the opening of the session 121 names were checked, and 28 more immediately after. A motion to pass the reading of the minutes of the last meeting was opposed by Mr. Congdon and they were read. The real reason they were read was because every one knew they were short.

Chairman Harvey read a letter from Councilman Horace N. Hassard of the Second ward, resigning his office, and a recess of five minutes was taken to fill the vacancy. It was only for five minutes, as the members were back in four and Mr. Congdon reported that John T. Delano, Jr., had been selected to fill the vacancy. He was unanimously elected.

The chairman then took up the business on the docket and it was dis-
